

City May Ask Aid To Solve Slaying

The calling in of outside aid to assist city police in finding the slayer of 18-year-old Phyllis Stroud is being seriously considered by Mayor Percy George, head of the police commission, he said this afternoon.

There is a possibility that the provincial police and the R.C.M.P. will be asked for their help, the mayor said, but he would not decide definitely until this evening or tomorrow morning.

He is also considering calling a special meeting of the police commission he said, to investigate the matter.

YOKOHAMA (AP)—While Japanese troops guarded the highway, a battalion of 750 men of the U.S. 11th Airborne Division moved into and occupied this sixth city of Japan this afternoon.

Most of the business houses of Yokohama were closed. A few factories were operating.

En route to Yokohama the Americans could see much of the damage inflicted by the B-29's.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The State Department today announced U.S. resumption of relations with Finland, effective at midnight tonight.

The decision was taken because the U.S. government considers the present government "broadly representative of all democratic elements in Finnish political life."

11 Leading Nazis Held in 'Solitary'

LONDON (CP)—At least 11 of the 24 top-ranking Germans named Thursday as Nazi war criminals are held in solitary confinement at Nuremberg, Germany, where their mass trial will take place.

They are: Herman Goering, Joachim von Ribbentrop, Franz von Papen, Marshal Wilhelm Keitel, Col. Gen. Alfred Jodl, Julius Streicher, Robert Ley, Wilhelm Frick, Alfred Rosenberg, Arthur Seyss-Inquart and Hans Frank. Rudolf Hess is held somewhere in Britain.

Opposes Coalition

TRAIL, B.C. (CP)—Opposed to coalition, Mayor John Gordon of Rossland announced here today that he has resigned as vice-president of the Rossland-Trail District Liberal Association.

Mayor Gordon said his action was caused by a decision reached at a Liberal organization meeting to continue coalition and to seek co-operation of Progressive Conservatives to name a joint candidate in the provincial election.

President Says All U.S. Responsible for Pearl Harbor Loss

WASHINGTON (CP)—President Truman today said he believed the whole of the United States, as much as any individual, was responsible for the Pearl Harbor disaster, Dec. 7, 1941, when the Japanese sneak attack on the Pacific base destroyed or damaged a major portion of the U.S. Pacific fleet.

Speaking at a news conference, Mr. Truman told the reporters he had no objection to a court-martial, but that he had no intention of ordering one.

Answering a barrage of questions based on yesterday's release of the official reports by boards of inquiry which had investigated Pearl Harbor, the President said he had read the documents carefully. He said he had come to the conclusion that the whole thing was a result of the policy of the United States itself.

The U.S. was not ready for preparedness, he added.

Preparedness moves by the late President Roosevelt were stifled, Mr. Truman said, and Mr. Roosevelt was vilified for preparedness statements. Therefore, he said, the country was as much to blame as any individual.

Allied Commander Lands In Japan

$42,000,000,000 In Lend-lease To Be Written Off

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Truman recommended to Congress today that the more than $42,000,000,000 the United States spent on lend-lease aid to its Allies should, in the main, be written off the books.

The reason—made clear in a lengthy report by Mr. Truman—is that the administration believes the United States received three things more important than a dollar basis settlement.

They are:

1. Victory over Germany and Japan.

2. More than $5,600,000,000 up to March 31 in reverse lend-lease.

3. A commitment from all nations receiving lend-lease to join in organizing postwar international trade on the basis of lowering barriers.

(Mr. Truman's comment that lend-lease expenditures be written off was in the nature of a recommendation. Before such a suggestion could be implemented, legislation would have to be introduced in Congress and approved by the House of Representatives and Senate.)

Major Objective Of Plan Achieved

In a letter accompanying the report, Mr. Truman told the lawmakers:

"With the defeat of the Axis powers, whose ruthless plan for world conquest and enslavement came so close to succeeding, the United States has realized the major objective for which lend-lease aid has been extended."

The President recently ordered lend-lease operations halted, effective V-J Day, and already has cut off requisitions for supplies which formerly would have been ordered under the mutual aid program.

Meanwhile, arrangements are being worked out with lend-lease countries to switch their commerce over to a peacetime basis. U.S. officials will begin conversations with a British delegation next week for some sort of credit substitute.

Summing up, the gigantic program Mr. Truman said: "Each of our principal fighting partners has contributed to the pool of armed might in accordance with its full abilities and capacities."

Now, he added, the lend-lease arrangements are being wound up in an "expedient and orderly manner, subject to military needs for the movement of troops, or for occupation purposes."

The report itself was even more specific on the question of final settlement.

"The overwhelming portion of lend-lease aid, which now totals over $42,000,000,000," it said, "has been directly consumed by our allies in the war."

It added that if so huge a debt were to be added to the enormous financial obligations already incurred by foreign governments "it would have a disastrous effect upon our trade with the United Nations and hence among production and employment at home."

For years there has been talk of repayment "in kind." That meant that if the U.S. lend-leased tanks, trucks or machine tools to a country which had some left over after the war, the return of those left-over articles could be requested.

However, top officials said today there was no thought of any sizeable requests along this line. Such action, they added, would only mean adding to the surplus of munitions and war production materials already building up in the United States.

Dr. Willis has been carrying on at my request for some time, said Mr. Perry, "but handed me his resignation immediately the war ended. I have requested him to continue for a short time in order that his matchless experience and advice will be available to his successor."

"No words of mine adequately can express my appreciation of the sterling services and devotion to public duty rendered by Dr. Willis during his quarter of a century as head of the Department of Education. His high scholastic standing is recognized not only in this province but throughout the Dominion."

"Dr. Willis took charge of this department in 1920, by a coincidence—the same year I became a member of the Legislature, and I have been acquainted with him ever since. But during the last four years while I have been Minister of Education, we have enjoyed a personal friendship which will endure. His sound advice and unfailing courtesy have been invaluable to the government."

2 Key Educationalists To Retire Soon

Resignations soon of two key figures in the provincial Department of Education—Dr. S. J. Willis, deputy minister and superintendent of education, and Dr. H. B. King, chief inspector of schools, were announced today by Education Minister H. G. T. Perry.

Col. F. T. Fairley, director of technical education, will be appointed deputy minister and superintendent of education, and the office of chief inspector of schools will be combined with that of the assistant to the deputy minister and superintendent, Mr. Perry said.

annuation age, but who have carried on owing to the shortage of experienced educationalists, in order that opportunities for advancement may be opened in the teaching profession."

Dr. Willis was born in Prince Edward Island in 1877 and as a young man came to British Columbia to teach. Advancing rapidly he was appointed principal of Victoria High School in 1908.

PRINCIPAL HERE

In 1916 he left Victoria High School to become associate professor of classics at the University of British Columbia, a position he left the following year to accept the principalship of King Edward High School in Vancouver.

He went to the department of education in 1919 from King Edward High School.

With the creation in 1928 of the position of deputy minister of education, Dr. Willis received the appointment.

For a number of years principal of Kitsilano High School in Vancouver, Dr. King had served a long time in the teaching profession in British Columbia before joining the department.

In 1933 he was brought to Victoria by Dr. George M. Weir, minister of education, and charged with revision of the curriculum. He was appointed chief inspector of schools when this work was completed.

Fire Sweeps Ships At Portland; Man Drowns; 1 Missing

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—Flames swept through the Oregon Shipbuilding Corporation plant today, destroying possibly millions of dollars of newly-completed vessels and killing a cabin painter.

The man, not yet identified, drowned when he dived from a flaming ship into the basin. An asbestos operator also is missing. The fire broke out on the Bexar Victory, a completed ship, and roared within minutes over the U.S.S. Glynn, a troopship lying alongside. Several other ships in the basin were caught in the blaze.

The outfitting dock caught fire. Flames swept under the piling, endangering the four 15-ton Whirley cranes on the dock.

Six or seven ships were lying in the basin, Albert Bauer, manager of the yard, feared they would be destroyed, with a loss of $25,500,000.

Firemen battled to keep the blaze from still untouched shipways. A pall of black smoke covered the north Portland district, and lights and telephone communication at the yard went out.

The Kaiser yard was built in 1941. It set world production records by turning out ships assembly belt fashion, and launched its 452nd vessel only Wednesday.

It was scheduled to launch its final ship, the 455th, Sept. 8, and to complete deliveries by mid-October.

Prisoners' Letters Rushed From Tokyo

OTTAWA (CP)—Some 318 letters and cards written by Canadian prisoners of war in Tokyo between January and March were received here today and will be rushed by air to their destinations. W. J. Turnbull, deputy postmaster-general announced today.

Arrangements were completed in recent weeks with the Defence Department to enable prisoners released by the Japanese to receive communications by Canada air letters from their relatives in Canada, and to send Canada air letters home immediately on release.

More Meat, Butter For People of U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Increase in meat, cheese, butter and margarine rations in the United States was announced today, becoming effective Sunday, Sept. 2. The new ration order—reducing coupon values—allows for increases of 28 per cent in meat, 50 per cent in cheese and 25 per cent in butter and margarine.

Canned milk becomes ration free, the announcement added. The increase in ration values was attributed to larger allocations by the Agriculture Department and improved distribution.

MacArthur Says He's Satisfied With Jap Action

ATSUGI AIRFIELD, Japan (AP)—Gen. MacArthur went by automobile to his new headquarters in the undamaged Grand Hotel in Yokohama immediately after landing here today in his transport plane, Bataan, to direct in person the occupation and surrender of Japan.

He was accompanied by Lt. Gen. Robert Eichelberger of the U.S. 8th Army and Lt. Gen. Richard K. Sutherland, his chief of staff.

The general, who came to Japan as a military ruler, arrived 10 hours after 7,500 men of the 11th Airborne Division had begun mass occupation landings at Atsugi and 10,000 marines and sailors had swarmed ashore inside Tokyo Bay to take over the Yokosuka naval base.

He said the Japanese appeared to be acting in good faith and the occupation was proceeding in orderly fashion "without bloodshed."

The general, who will sign for the Allied powers at the ceremony aboard the battleship Missouri Sunday, brought new instructions for the Japanese—and an alternate set of plans, just in case they were needed.

But he said everything seemed to be "going splendidly."

As the general made his entry into Nippon it was disclosed that other 11th Division airborne troops, making the trip in Japanese trucks, had gone east of Atsugi to enter Yokohama, port city of Tokyo. The entry was an unopposed, smoothly executed movement.

Japanese officers along the road to Yokohama saluted smartly as the division elements rode to their new objective. One Japanese lieutenant first saluted, then bowed.

The airborne men entering Yokohama found it had been reduced to a "shantytown" by Allied bombers. Many Japanese were living in shacks made of scrap. Others lived in caves. Many cooked over open fires. However, some modern buildings still were intact in the heart of the city.

Paratroopers and sea-borne marines and sailors swarmed over the skies and in from the sea in an unbroken stream.

They took over the Sugi airfield, 18 miles from Tokyo; the

Allied Correspondents Tour Tokyo See Vast Areas Bombs Burned Out

By ROBERT REUBEN
TOKYO (Reuter)—This battered capital of the fallen Japanese empire took an aerial pounding, but the city itself does not compare in horror or devastation with the twisted, gruesome rubble that was Berlin when I saw it last May.

I drove and walked through the streets of Yokohama, and Tokyo this morning, past the bomb-damaged Imperial palace, through the palatial Imperial Hotel and other famous spots while Japanese civilians stared impassively.

A half-hour after the landing at the nearby Atsugi airfield our press party of four correspondents was walking the Tokyo streets, although it was not yet visited by U.S. troops.

I found much evidence in dozens of people to whom I talked that the Japanese were fully aware they had lost the war and were somewhat apprehensive about the severity of Allied peace terms.

There was no evidence or indication of resistance, but we found a few people sullen and apparently resentful.

We drove in a dilapidated American car with two Japanese and as we bumped over country roads civilians in their rice paddies straightened to watch and Japanese soldiers gazed impassively while a few children laughed or shook their fists.

"I don't think there will be any resistance or hostility from the Japanese people," said the president of the Domei agency, Inosuke Furuno, when we met him in the relatively undamaged Domei building.

In Tokyo, one wing of the Emperor's palace had been damaged, but the grounds generally were well kept up and beautiful.

Whereas the contours of Adolf Hitler's rubble capital were changed by huge craters and gaping holes that once were buildings and suffered tremendous damage from blockbusters and Russian artillery, Tokyo and Yokohama suffered from fire bombs which razed entire sections. As a result we saw ashes and barren acres mile after mile. But it wasn't the look of horror and terrible devastation Berlin presented.

MacArthur's Staff Takes Radio Tokyo

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Radio Tokyo, most listened to Japanese station for the last four years, was taken over today by Gen. MacArthur's public relations staff.

It marked the end of one of Japan's most powerful and bustling propaganda weapons, and source of most wartime reports for the rest of the world of what was happening inside of Japan. Now it will be used to bring news and broadcasts to North America.

The station, outside Tokyo itself but in the metropolitan area, is situated about 12 miles from the Atsugi airfield.

Bridges Joins Cabinet; Canada To Disband Her Pacific Forces

OTTAWA (CP)—Maj. H. F. G. Bridges of Fredericton, N.B., is Canada's new Minister of Fisheries. Hon. J. J. McCann, Minister of National War Services, today took the oath as Minister of National Revenue as well, and Hon. Ernest Bertrand, former Fisheries Minister, became Postmaster-General.

Announcements to this effect were made Wednesday night by Prime Minister King at a press conference. He also disclosed the air and military forces organized for the Pacific War will be disbanded as soon as Japan signs the terms of surrender. Canada will have no army occupation force in Japan.

In moving to fill existing vacancies in his cabinet in preparation for the parliamentary session opening Sept. 6, Mr. King did not preclude the possibility of further reorganization after the present session.

TO BEAUTIFY OTTAWA

Steps are being taken, Mr. King said, for a large planning program in the development of the national capital and the surrounding area. He said the government is considering the possibility of making this development the nation's memorial to the men who gave their lives in the present war.

Dealing with the Pacific, the Prime Minister said signing of the surrender by Japan would be the signal for disbanding immediately the 33,000 men of the Canadian army and air force who were destined for Pacific service. Arrangements were already going forward for speedy demobilization of these men in accordance with established procedures.

NAVAL UNITS

The Prime Minister said, however, it was possible Canada might have one or two naval units operating with security forces in Far Eastern waters. The anti-aircraft cruiser Prince Robert is already on a mercy mission with medical supplies to Hongkong, and the Pacific Canadian flag ship, the cruiser Ontario, is also reported in Japanese waters.

Questioned as to the possible nature of Canada's peacetime armed forces, Mr. King said he was not at present in a position to give out anything. He believed any information on that subject should be reserved for members of Parliament.

SERVED IN LEGISLATURE

The new addition to the Cabinet, Mr. Bridges, gives New Brunswick representation at the council table. At 43, one of the cabinet's youngest members, he is a barrister by profession, and a veteran of this war. He was first elected to the Commons in the June 22 general election, but had experience as member and Speaker in the New Brunswick Legislature.

Mr. King also revealed that the two departments held by Hon. C. D. Howe—Munitions and Supply and Reconstruction—will be merged later into a new department of "reconstruction and supply."

He said that for the first post-war opening of Parliament, a partial review of the national ceremonial would be arranged. As to the beautification of Ottawa, Mr. King said Jacques Greber, noted French town planner, who before the war prepared a plan for downtown Ottawa, had been asked to return to Canada and prepare a larger plan for the whole area, including the City of Hull on the Quebec side of the Ottawa River.

Alberta Well Ahead With Coal Supply

EDMONTON (CP)—John Crawford, chief inspector of mines in Alberta, said today Albertans won't have to worry about any coal shortage this winter, even though the rest of Canada faces a bleak, bleak outlook.

Commenting on a statement made by Coal Controller E. J. Brunning at Ottawa Thursday night that "coal supplies will be short in Canada this winter despite the cessation of hostilities," Mr. Crawford said: "Alberta is nearly 500,000 tons of coal ahead of last year's production so far and half the mines in the province are working slow time because there is no outlet for the coal. Strip mines in the province are doing hardly anything at all."

Canadian Soldier, War Prisoner Said To Have Joined Nazi Corps

By DOUGLAS AMARON

FARNBOROUGH, Hampshire, Eng. (CP)—Pte. Edwin Bernard Martin, 26, of Riverside, Ont., was called before a Canadian Army general court-martial today to answer a charge that for 19 months he was a member of the British Free Corps, an anti-Russian body controlled by the enemy.

Pte. Martin was also charged with aiding the enemy as an informer after he had been captured at Dieppe in August, 1942. The maximum penalty which could be imposed on him if he were convicted would be death.

Pte. Martin first appeared in the court Tuesday, but before the charges were read, defence counsel Lt.-Col. F. E. D. Wallace of Brantford, Ont., asked for a postponement.

ASKS JURY TRIAL

Today, Col. Wallace submitted these points to the charges. He said Martin as a prisoner of war was not on active service under the Army Act and should be tried by a civil court under the Treason Act.

He told the court it would be fairer, more just and equitable that the Martin case be decided by a judge and jury of 12 men who had reached a unanimous decision than by a court-martial of five members, acting both as judge and jury and giving their judgment by a majority decision. There is no appeal on a court-martial decision—only the right of petition.

Col. Wallace further submitted that the charges were not particularized sufficiently, and cited the case of William Joyce (Lord Haw Haw), in which the "Crown was sparing no expense in the interests of justice, and sending to the United States for experts for the defence to ascertain evidence."

"Martin is going to say he went into the British Free Corps to smash it up," the defence counsel said. "An intelligence officer of the British army might go into Germany and join the British Free Corps for the same purpose."

PLEADS NOT GUILTY

The submissions were disallowed, and Martin pleaded innocent.

Lt.-Col. J. D. Watt of Ottawa, the prosecuting officer, said Martin came from London, Ont., and enlisted Sept. 4, 1939. He was taken prisoner at Dieppe Aug. 19, 1942, and sent to Stalag 8-B at Landsdorf.

The British Free Corps was originally known as the Legion of St. George, and was to be used as a propaganda movement to combat Bolshevism.

Pacific Coast Tuna Fishing Growing To Major Industry

Building rapidly from the small and not very profitable efforts of a few Canadian fishermen who 15 years ago fished for tuna off the coast of Washington and Oregon states, the tuna fishing industry in Canada has today grown to huge proportions, as tens of thousands of pounds of the fish are landed with Victoria packers every day during the three to five-month season.

A. E. Carr, manager of the Kyuquot Trollers' Co-operative Association, estimates nearly 50 per cent of the larger boats once fishing for salmon have now turned to tuna fishing. Main increase in the industry has come within the last two years with stories circulating the waterfront of the well-paying hauls reaching port here.

It still remains the fishing industry only, however, Canada's low ceiling price, compared with the 21 cents a pound paid for the fish in the U.S., prompts Canadian fishermen to sell to the U.S. market and Canadian canners are not canning the fish at all, as their operational expenses would be too high for a profit to be made.

SHIPPING TO U.S. FOR CANNING

The result is tuna fish boats stream into Victoria daily, unload their cargoes at the B.C. Packers Ltd. and Western Fish Co. Ltd., where the tuna is frozen and shipped to the U.S. for sale and canning. Canning packers in British Columbia are studying the matter in hopes of starting tuna fish packing in this province.

The tuna fishing industry has flourished off the coasts of Florida and California for many years. About 15 years ago American vessels began fishing the grounds off Washington and Oregon. Only a few Canadian fishermen took part in the operations then, and their numbers did not increase appreciably until the outbreak of the war.

Fifteen years ago fishermen got only 2 cents a pound for tuna. The public was not aware of the delicate and good flavor of tuna. As there was no demand, tuna canning by commercial firms was small. Some home-canning was done.

When war broke out, fishing products became scarce, and the public soon learned to like tuna. With the increased demand, prices began to climb, and fishermen, aware of the good market, put to sea more often for tuna, many leaving the salmon fishing grounds for what they believed would be a more lucrative field. For many, it was.

Operation costs are higher fishing for tuna than for salmon, but pay is better. Fishermen here have a 250-mile trip out and a 250-mile trip in.

BUILD TUNA BOATS HERE

At the fishing grounds, many vessels travel another 500 miles in their actual fishing operation, total mileage logging around 1,000. Most vessels from Victoria ports average some seven days out each trip.

In the fall of last year, construction was started on the first boat built on this coast specifically for tuna fishing. She is the Zorina, a 35-ton vessel, with a capacity for 25,000 pounds of fish. She was launched from the ways at Wilby's Machine Shop, 626 Montreal Street, on April 12, this year. Since then packing company records show her to have landed some good hauls.

Since her launching, work has been going on at Wilby's on a second vessel. She is the Phyllis, and is being built for W. Pomeroy. It is expected she will be completed in just a few weeks.

The Kyuquot Co-operative has about 33 vessels 40 to 50 feet in length, fishing the tuna grounds this year, Mr. Carr said. The co-operative was the largest single Canadian concern going after tuna, he added. There are also a number of independent fishermen going out.

GOOD AND BAD LUCK

Mr. Carr warned against the great optimism among many people who thought tuna-fishing was a sure gold mine. Although hauls were often good, and when good were lucrative, there were still times when a fisherman might have poor luck for his long labors.

Tuna fishermen fish as much as 150 miles out and are liable to run into heavy weather for days on end when no fishing can be done. All the fishermen can do is ride out the storm, sometimes with their boats constantly awash, no facilities to cook their food properly and unable to get proper sleep as the boats pitch and toss wildly about. There is also poor luck to be

Butchers Instructed On Meat Rationing

City meat retailers at City Hall get pointers from O. H. Bell, regional superintendent.

Meat rationing which will be re-introduced in Canada shortly is another guard against inflation and an assurance that there will be equitable distribution of the balance of meat left when overseas commitments have been met. O. H. Bell, regional superintendent of rationing for B.C., said on his arrival in Victoria Wednesday.

Mr. Bell addressed a meeting of the wholesale meat trade in the Belmont Building Wednesday afternoon and a meeting of the retail meat dealers at the City Hall in the evening. He explained the system of rationing and the use of tokens.

"Although the war is over and civilian goods will now be coming back on the market in steadily increasing quantities, there is still a serious shortage of food

all over the world, he said. "Canada can be the 'Good Samaritan' and ration her own consumption of meat to feed the starving millions of Europe, or we can be isolationists and eat all of it ourselves."

"Canada's contributions of meat to the Combined Food Board of the United Nations have been large but in order to meet present or increased commitments, the government decided to re-impose meat rationing as soon as the necessary machinery could be set up."

Fancy meats and such items as liver, heart, kidney and tongue, which were unrationed in the first rationing period, will be included in the new set-up, Mr. Bell explained.

"United Kingdom officials," he said, "estimate that even if all the present orders for meat to their countries are filled, they would still want from Canada during the latter half of 1945, well over 400,000,000 pounds of meat in order to maintain present British ration levels and provide for the servicemen, whom they must still maintain under arms in the occupied territories."

Stating that rationing and pricing went hand in hand in guarding against inflation, Mr. Bell said that butter was selling in Newfoundland at $1.25 a pound. As supplies increased, Wartime Prices and Trade Board restrictions are lifted, he said, adding that there were about 260 restrictions two years ago, while today there are about 60.

The ration will work out to approximately two pounds of meat per person per week.

borne in mind as well. It may be a case of fishing for days on end and not running into shoals of tuna. A few days ago, there were seven vessels in at B.C. Packers at one time. Most had good hauls, but one vessel had only 354 pounds of fish aboard. That is what Mr. Carr meant when he warned against over-optimism.

With the end of the war there are hopes Canada will lift her ceiling price on tuna and make it worthwhile for Canadian firms to can the tuna.

J. H. Todd and Sons Ltd. have inquired into the possibilities of tuna fishing at present, but looking at it from a canner's point of view find the present ceiling prices make such an operation a poor business venture.

They are, however, making postwar plans in the salmon industry. No decisions have yet been reached, but the company is considering a construction project. They may also consider a further construction project if tuna canning became a profitable enterprise in Canada.

EXPERIMENTAL CANNING

Some canning companies in B.C. have already experimented in the canning of tuna, but, because of shortage of oils, have had to use cotton seed oil. Tuna is canned differently from salmon, and because of pre-cooking, there is a certain amount of shrinkage in the meat.

So far, none of the few cases of tuna canned, have been put on the market. However, there may be efforts on the part of Canadian canners to put a tuna product on the market some time in the future.

It will then remain to be seen how the public takes to the Canadian product. If it likes it tuna fishing will probably remain as a major industry on the Canadian Pacific coast.

British Columbians May Not Get Liquor Cheaper for Months

Because both federal and provincial revenues are involved it appeared unlikely here today that the reduction to postwar levels of the retail prices of liquor would be effected before the reconvening of the Dominion-Provincial Conference.

When two years ago liquor rationing was inaugurated in Canada, the Dominion government guaranteed to cover provincial annual profits from liquor, amounting to more than $6,000,000 per year for British Columbia. This guarantee was made provided both the federal and provincial taxes should be increased $2 per gallon proof spirits.

In Ottawa Wednesday night federal officials said provincial liquor commissions could reduce the retail price without waiting for the reduction in the federal excise tax, which with the wartime increase, now amounts to $11 per gallon proof spirits.

The reduction of the federal excise tax can not be made before the budget is presented to Parliaproof strengths is also unlikely before a settling of financial questions, including the Dominion excise tax.

Because of the structure of the federal tax to increase the proof strength of B.C.'s liquor from 30 to 25 under proof would cost the province $1.07 per case in federal taxes although increasing of the proof strength would increase the production and therefore the wholesale price to the province only a negligible amount.

Therefore, while Liquor Commissioner W. F. Kennedy has offered no report on the discussions at Toronto, it is believed the meeting shelved the questions of reducing prices and increasing the strength of liquors.

BERLIN TRACK MEET
BERLIN (AP)—The stadium in which the 1936 Olympic Games were held will again be the scene of international competition late in September when British, American, Russian and French athletes compete in a track and field meet. Weights and pole vault will be invitation affairs since not all four powers are familiar with them and the results will not count in team scores.

Ships Used as Bait To Lure Jap Fleet Again in Service

NEW YORK (AP)—The 13,000-mile odyssey of two wounded ships, the U.S. heavy cruisers Houston and Canberra, was made public today by the navy in an account of a series of night battles last October in the Pacific which cost the two ships the lives of 78 crew members.

The Houston and Canberra, blasted by Japanese torpedoes in an engagement off the island of Formosa, were used by Admiral Halsey as bait in a tremendous hoax which nearly lured the Japanese fleet to destruction by the U.S. 3rd Fleet.

Not until today were censorship restrictions lifted to permit publication of the story. The Canberra is being repaired at the Boston Navy Yard; repairs to the Houston have just been completed.

(The Canberra bears the name of the Australian cruiser sunk during a surprise Japanese attack near Savo Island, off Guadalcanal, on the night of Aug. 8, 1942. It is the first United States naval vessel honoring a foreign city, in this case the capital of Australia.)

(The Houston was named after the old U.S.S. Houston, which has been listed by the navy as "overdue and presumed lost" since Feb. 28, 1942, when she met an enemy naval force in Netherlands East Indies waters and never was heard from again. It was announced Tuesday in Washington that approximately 300 survivors of the old Houston had been located at a Japanese prison camp in Thailand.)

Damage to the two cruisers caused "Tokyo Rose" and other radio commentators to announce to a jubilant Jap public that most of the 3rd Fleet had been sunk. Hoping that Jap admirals might believe their own radio and try to finish off the cripples, Halsey ordered the Houston and Canberra to maintain a course in Jap waters.

The ruse nearly worked. Out came the Jap fleet but less than 200 miles from the bait—and an equal distance from Halsey's main force—the Japanese fleet turned tail and ran for cover of Japan.

The Canberra was hit when seven Jap planes roared from an overcast. All were shot down—but not until one had put a torpedo in her, killing 23 men. Three of four planes which attacked the Houston were shot down by the ship's gunners, but a torpedo tore into the vessel.

TORONTO (CP)—Ninety-five soldiers from the Brantford camp reported for work this morning at the Canada Packers' plant, where they will receive the same rate of pay as civilian workers, a minimum of $6 a day.

Congressmen Want Courts-Martial On Facts in Pearl Harbor Reports

WASHINGTON (CP)—Although the United States army and navy were ready to close the books on the Pearl Harbor investigation, Congress demanded courts-martial and more information today. There was clamoring for the attack on the Pacific island base Dec. 7, 1941 when Japan destroyed or crippled a great portion of the U.S. Pacific Fleet.

Too, there was a renewed clamoring by some legislators for a merging of the navy and army into a single department of national defense.

Reports made by army and navy boards of inquiry were disclosed Wednesday along with reports by War Secretary Stimson, Navy Secretary Forrestal and Admiral Ernest J. King, commander-in-chief of the fleet.

MARSHALL MENTIONED
One or another of the reports pointed accusing fingers at half a dozen men in high position, including Gen. George C. Marshall, army chief of staff, and former State Secretary Cordell Hull.

There were no recommendations for courts-martial or punishment, and President Truman indicated there would be no military trials.

The full story has not yet been told, for the reports dealt only with the findings and opinions of the inquiry boards. They omitted most of the testimony on which the reports were based.

ALL ASK INFORMATION
A number of senators and representatives, particularly Republicans, thought the public was entitled to all the information on Pearl Harbor. Both Stimson and Forrestal said appropriate congressional committees would be given full records and reports. These documents brought sharply into focus a number of points previously unknown or obscured. For example:

1. Admiral H. E. Kimmel was advised by Admiral Harold R. Stark, then Chief of Naval Operations, on Nov. 24, 1921, that "a surprise aggressive movement in any direction, including an at-

BRAVES "BRASS"—Publication of the U.S. army and navy boards' reports on the Pearl Harbor disaster brings into the lime-light a denunciation of the U.S. court-martial system by Edwin F. Woodie, above, president of the Cuyahoga Bar Association of over 500 Cleveland, O., attorneys. Reporting on a long study, the association charged courts rely on "amateurs" and "the same select group of brass hats accuse, prosecute and judges." The association is asking for a congressional investigation.

Truman Advocates St. Lawrence Plan

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Truman plans to recommend to Congress soon the completion of the St. Lawrence Seaway project long advocated by his predecessor, President Roosevelt.

Asked at his news conference today if he planned to make a recommendation for the completion of the project, Mr. Truman said he did.

Quebec Flooded With Fake Sugar Coupons

QUEBEC (CP)—More than 500,000 counterfeit sugar ration coupons are in circulation in the Quebec district, Maurice Boisvert, Prices Board prosecutor, said Wednesday at the arraignment in the court of sessions of Lucien Ouellet, Quebec merchant, who was convicted on charges of selling 200 bags of sugar and accepting 20,000 counterfeit coupons for it.

Judge Hughes Fortier fined Ouellet $100 and costs.

Scotland's Rehabilitation Starts In Farming; Industrial Areas

EDINBURGH (CP)—Only about one-fifth of Scotland's 5,000,000 people live in rural areas, but, if electricity, good roads, indoor plumbing and a steady income can attract thousands are going back to the land.

Officials in the office of the Secretary of State for Scotland (Joseph Westwood) said that wars may have been a factor in depopulating the glens, but economic conditions and stern landlords who wanted sheep, "four-footed clansmen," were the chief factors.

20,000,000 OVERSEAS

Three-fifths of Scotland's population is found in the industrial belt, in Glasgow, Edinburgh and along the Clyde, with coal and ships and machines their livelihood. Left lonely are the remote valleys where 200 years ago thousands of clansmen poured out from warm homes to fight for Prince Charlie in the last hopeless Stuart rebellion. Across the seas are 20,000,000 people of Scottish descent, whose ancestors found there was no land or no jobs.

"Scots abroad sometimes write sadly of their romantic memories of the bracken and the heather," said an official.

"Bracken and heather are fine from a scenic viewpoint and we like them, but in some ways they are the curse of Scotland. When a farm or croft is vacated, the bracken and the heather move in on the once fertile fields and another home is gone."

The Scot who goes farming today has the assistance of agricultural experts who will tell him his most suitable crops and how the soil can be preserved and made fertile. He may rent a government tractor for his plowing and electricity will run his threshing machine.

Dispersal of industry is expected to be United Kingdom policy following the anguish of modern air bombing, and the

Animal Killer Busy Again in Vancouver

VANCOUVER (CP)—Two dogs and a rabbit have been added to the growing list of victims of Vancouver's animal torturer.

"The latest victim, Sandy, a cocker spaniel, came home Wednesday whimpering with an inch-long razor cut on his back. Toby, a fox terrier, was stabbed behind the right foreleg Tuesday night, and a rabbit has been found dead earlier in its hutch.

The S.P.C.A. has offered a reward of nearly $400 for information leading to the arrest of the person responsible for the attacks on several dogs, rabbits and goats here during the last three months.

R.C.A.F. to Double Discharge Rate

OTTAWA (CP)—Air Minister Gibson announced Wednesday R.C.A.F. release centres had been asked to double their output and work seven days a week to release 46,000 personnel in the next two months.

The release centres had previously been geared to demobilize at the rate of 10,000 a month.

"New release centres have been opened at Dartmouth and Moncton for Pacific force personnel and one at Boundary Bay, B.C., for personnel of operational training units at which training has ceased following the end of the war with Japan," Mr. Gibson said.

"One thing is certain: Demobilization is proceeding as rapidly as possible with justice to the individual and the avoidance of undue hardship."

Men found in need of remedial medical or dental treatment were encouraged to take it in R.C.A.F. establishments before discharge, he said. The returning airman would be better off financially and better fitted for his civilian job in many cases if he takes treatment before discharge.

THE FIRST TWO DOZEN

ORDERLY PROCEDURE TO CONFORM to the demands of justice will govern the mass trial of the two dozen Nazi criminals which is to begin early in October in the ancient and romantic Bavarian city of Nuremberg. But the whole of the Allied world will fervently hope that such proprieties as the special circumstances may warrant will not be unduly labored. Desirable as it may be that the unique precedent about to be established shall be meticulous in its guiding principles—since the judgment that will emerge is intended for legal posterity—the men to be arraigned are already convicted in the eyes of decent folk everywhere. Not that anybody expects mawkish sentimentality to influence the court. And it will require a stout defence to dispute the gravity of the acts of which these brutes are accused.

Everybody will agree that the War Crimes Commission, at long last, has selected a typical batch of "arch-thugs" for the initial proceedings of its court. These 24 men are truly representative of the Nazi philosophy and its fantastic ideological trimmings; their whole bearing from the early days of Adolf Hitler's reign has reflected in chapter and verse a blind allegiance to the gospel according to Mein Kampf. Perhaps it never will be known to what depths in particular instances some of them have descended in their brutalities. But enough is known of the part Streicher, Frank, Ley and others of their ilk have played in the sheer bestialities to insure for them swift if inadequate punishment. Nor is it likely that men like von Ribbentrop, Seyss-Inquart, and von Papen, among the more prominent schemers will escape their just desserts because their machinations were largely confined to the diplomatic realm. Such financial and industrial cogs in the dastardly Nazi machine as Schacht and Krupp von Bohlen surely will not be entitled to any mercy merely because their dealings over the years were of an internationally-nefarious character.

In other words, the initial two dozen should be dealt with with all the speed that may be considered compatible with the significance of this unique mass trial; but it can be taken for granted that unless there shall be a disposition on the part of the court to treat them as the worst kind of criminal ever to be given fair trial, universal anger will soon find a means of manifesting itself. These men have stooped to every form of behaviour which is repugnant to all the peoples of the world who still conform to the decencies of life—who demand that never again shall any manner of nationalistic or international behaviour be allowed to threaten their progress toward enduring peace and security.

CONTRIBUTORY NEGLIGENCE

IN THE BLAZING FLAME OF ANGER which consumed the United States and friendly nations following the attack on Pearl Harbor on Dec. 7, 1941, it was natural that sober consideration of the conditions which made that blow possible would yield to less stable judgment. And because it is human to seek a scapegoat, it also was natural that the probings of an exhaustive inquiry would single out certain individuals whose responsibility was automatically involved by the very nature of their official status.

That is an element to be kept in mind in reading the statement by President Truman of his belief that the United States as a nation was responsible for the disaster. It will be recalled that two weeks before the attack some publicists and one well-known military writer made light of the boasted might of the Japanese. And against a background of peace propaganda and a well-defined isolationism, our great neighbor had taken for granted the impossibility of an aggressor achieving success against it.

That was the spirit which prevailed. No doubt lack of co-ordination left Pearl Harbor vulnerable. It would be quite possible to find scapegoats for the lack of preparation. But viewing the situation in broader perspective, would there be any value in such a course? Those inclined to pin the blame on a few individuals might well regard the position of the nation as a whole as one of contributory negligence.

HOW HE HAS CHANGED

AUSTRALIAN-BORN HARRY BRIDGES, once the powerful and unpredictable west coast labor leader, is quoted as saying that the strike weapon is no longer effective in the United States. Probably he is not the only high-up unionist who has reached that conclusion, though no others have expressed themselves with such finality. And, whether or not the Australian head of the longshoremen's union made his statement with mental reservations, there is abundant evidence to support it.

It was inevitable that public opinion should turn against strikes and strikers in war industries. Responsibility for work stoppages which cost time and lives was usually fixed on local officials and local membership. Most of the top union officials condemned strikes in their own domains. Nevertheless, the whole union movement has suffered some loss of public esteem. And the result of these violations of the wartime no-strike pledge may be evident in the neighboring republic in the days of peace to come.

Some weapons should be handled carefully and used only on the strongest provocation. The strike is one of them. It is a legitimate weapon in the hands of responsible persons who use it as a last resort in enforcing just demands. No fair-minded person would deny labor the use of it under such circumstances. But too many war-work stoppages have seemed to be strikes for strikes' sake. Too many have arisen from impatience, not from intolerable and insoluble situations. Too many have betrayed a lack of sympathy with the orderly, civilized processes of discussion, arbitration and compromise. Too many have smacked of senseless class war in the midst of tragic conflict.

WELCOME NEWS

OF THE MANY IMPORTANT ANNOUNCEMENTS made by Prime Minister King at his press conference last night, his statement that air and military forces organized for the Pacific war will be disbanded, as soon as Japan has signed the terms of surrender, will carry the widest appeal to families in this Dominion. Relatives and friends, who had looked with concern on the imminent departure of those now on special leave prior to going to the Orient, will find satisfaction in the knowledge their men will not be needed for the occupation forces.

While the end of hostilities had eliminated almost completely the possibility of loss of life, there had still remained the unhappiness of prolonged separation inevitable had the airmen and troops been required in the Orient. Soon they may come home to pick up the threads of their peaceful lives among those dear to them. To those directly affected, the processes of speedy demobilization, which the Prime Minister stated are now being arranged, cannot be hastened too much. When they return to civilian life, these volunteers will carry with them not only the honors they have gained in other fields, but the nation's recognition of their willingness to serve until the full job of achieving victory had been done.

There were indications in Mr. King's speech that units of the Canadian Navy still have duties to perform across the Pacific. Regret over their continued absence, however, will be lessened by the nature of their work so splendidly exemplified by the mercy mission of the anti-aircraft cruiser, Prince Robert.

REMOBILIZATION FOR PEACE

PRESIDENT TRUMAN HAS TOLD CONGRESS that while he is anxious to speed up demobilization, he is also determined to make certain that the supply of men for the army is maintained by retaining the draft system for the age period 18 to 26. Many Congressmen believed there would be a large number of men desirous of remaining in the army and a sufficient number of volunteers to supply the necessary men for service both abroad and at home. The Chief Executive thinks otherwise, and though he is quite willing to make voluntary service the inspiration, he desires to make the draft the foundation of military service in the United States.

Roughly speaking, the United States estimates that service for the occupational forces in Europe will require at least 400,000 men, and in Japan about 1,500,000. There are the various bases and the home army to be supplied. If there are 2,000,000 men abroad, there must be at least that number at home in training to take their places. The navy appears to be figuring on 50,000 officers, 500,000 men, plus 100,000 marines. Air force requirements may be dovetailed with the civilian personnel, the latter being a reserve constancy in training, and presumably adding a bonus to their civilian pay while qualifying for the general reserve.

Two years' compulsory military service along these lines is expected to fill the vacancies created by demobilization. President Truman's plan evidently is to make certain that all doubt of whether the United States intends to live up to its responsibilities for world peace after the war, is removed by providing all the requirements to prevent sentiment submerging commonsense.

A RUMOR CAME BOUNDING

THERE ARE LIMITS TO WHAT THE magazines call "picturesque speech." But radio blissfully ignores them in its quest for hyperbole. Consider the broadcast which hinted at hara-kiri on the part of Hirohito. That was a rumor and registered as such by the man at the microphone. But he could not let it go at that.

"A rumor came bounding into the newsroom," formed the introduction. Reporters working late at night may see odd shapes emerging from the gloom of corridors leading into newsrooms. But heaven help them if they ever see a rumor bounding. The broadcast was incomplete. After the rumor had sported and frolicked around like a spaniel puppy, what did it do? You can't have rumors just bounding around newsrooms. They ought to be down and curl up, or sink away.

Beating the U-Boat

By FRANK B. WALKER

THE U-BOAT CAMPAIGN of the late war, while now generally referred to as the Battle of the Atlantic, was in fact not one, but five separate and distinct battles, each marked by the development of new tactics and weapons, and each taking place in a new sector of the North Atlantic.

The Allied task being "the safe and timely arrival of the convoy," we were naturally restricted to fighting an almost entirely defensive war, thus giving to the Nazis every advantage of time and position. They used this advantage well.

By constantly shifting their area of operation, they were able to stretch Allied defensive measures to the limit. They were able to use the surprise factor at will and generally to dictate the terms on which they would battle. A glimpse at the submarine war will show how they did this.

THE OPENING phase, known as the First Battle of the Western Approaches, saw the U-boat take up where he left off at the end of the first Great War. A tight, close-in blockade of the British Isles was instituted with the declaration of war. Single submarines were employed and special attention given to the north and south approaches to the Irish Sea.

Allied counter measures, limited by lack of escort vessels, were bolstered in turn by the introduction of a weapon—radio—which, though originally developed in 1918, never saw service in that war.

The U-boats in this opening phase—1939-1940—achieved an impressive bag of merchant ships but evidently not an imposing enough one, for later in this year a shift was made to deeper waters and the second phase, sometimes called the Battle of the Aces, began. This period saw the development of the highly individualistic surface attack led by star performers of Admiral Dönitz' underwater fleet.

HERE, TOO, THE U-boat achieved remarkable success until Allied training and experience bore fruit in a series of reverses which cost the Germans several of their best captains. By this time, late 1940, the fall of France had altered the emphasis again and provided the submarine with new hideouts in the Bay of Biscay.

The capture of Lorient, St. Nazaire and similar bases, now placed Admiral Dönitz in a position to throw his U-boats any distance across the North Atlantic. He proceeded to do so and the mid-ocean phase of the war was on. Using long patrol lines, stretched across the only possible convoy courses, control headquarters in Paris now began the mass pack attacks which brought about the crisis of 1941.

A U-boat spotting a convoy would ride along with it making quick reports to control headquarters of its estimated course and speed. Control, in turn, would rally the pack into an attacking position. The attack would come with the darkness.

INCREASED production of escort vessels, radar equipped, and with improved asdic, kept Allied convoys going through this period. The use of escort groups, unattached to a particular convoy but patrolling various areas in the Atlantic, enabled naval authorities to provide quick support for imperilled shipping.

The battle was not one-sided by any means but it was still running in favor of the Germans. Once again they made a switch and in 1942, with the United States in the war, began their strikes against the eastern seaboard of North America. This again was largely a matter of single U-boats. The result was appalling.

Hundreds of ships were sunk in an arc from the Gulf of St. Lawrence to the Caribbean Sea. It was a grim time for Allied strategists. If they pulled escorts off mid-ocean to bolster the defenses on the east coast, they faced the slaughter of the mid-ocean convoys. If they did not, the convoys might never be formed.

The temptation to do so was great, but instead mid-ocean convoys were maintained and other ships, from small minesweepers and yachts to corvettes and destroyers, found to cover this territory. At the same time, the full weight of the R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. coastal command was beginning to be felt.

THE TURNING POINT came in 1943. Support groups ranging into the Bay of Biscay and heavily backed by wonderfully developed air power which pounded the U-boat in his lair at St. Nazaire and also at sea, brought a rich harvest of U-boat kills. Escort carriers provided convoys with continuous air support through the gap in mid-ocean which was out of range of land based planes.

These factors, combined with greatly stepped up efficiency in both personnel and equipment, mauled the enemy so severely that he was completely unable to prevent the build-up of supplies for the invasion he knew was coming. Convoys moved back and forth across the ocean suffering insignificant losses. When the fifth phase began the defeat of Germany was already assured.

Then, armed with Schnorkel, a device which enabled the U-boat to stay under water an indefinite length of time, the Germans returned to the attack in the coastal waters of the British Isles where they had first begun the struggle. The effort was ineffectual. It was also far too late.

AS THE WAR ended, new high-speed U-boats were almost ready for action. They might have prolonged the battle awhile longer but they could never have altered its conclusion.

The skill which invented the acoustic torpedo and the Schnorkel was matched by the intelligence which produced the radar and the asdic.

The INTERNATIONAL SCENE

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press Foreign News Analyst

Lt. Gen. Jonathan M. Wainwright, now en route to Japan after his release from a prison camp in Manchuria since his surrender at Corregidor, has become overnight one of the leading personalities in the great drama which is unfolding in Tokyo Bay.

All this is quite unwitting on Gen. Wainwright's part. On the contrary, it's the last thing he would have expected. Throughout his years of imprisonment he thought he must be in disgrace with the folk back home.

Even now he can hardly understand his elevation to fame. You get that from his humble statements. Read his statement to the press:

"I have had very little direct contact with my country or official agencies thereof or even with my family for over three years, but such contacts here and there as I have had have caused me to believe that the administration, the War Department and the American people have accepted my dire disaster with forbearance and generosity which perhaps are unique in the experience of a defeated commander."

Place beside this remark Gen. Wainwright's comment when asked his second demand for surrender of the hard-pressed U.S. forces. This is related not by Gen. Wainwright, but by a fellow officer who remains anonymous. Said the commander:

"I've been to general staff school and the War College, but they never taught me what to do if I was called upon to surrender. I guess we shall have to continue fighting."

Finally there was nothing left to do but capitulate, or sacrifice the lives of the entire command without reason.

"My gallant troops," he said, "had perhaps made a defence against more overwhelming odds, under more disadvantageous circumstances, than troops of the American army had ever been confronted with in history."

So it is particularly fitting that Gen. MacArthur should have invited Gen. Wainwright, and those who were in prison with him, to be present at the formal surrender of Japan aboard the battleship Missouri.

The Mikado—As Others See Him

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

CANADIANS like Mr. Coldwell, who blithely condemn the Allied governments for retaining the Emperor of Japan as a figure-head without power, could usefully examine the views of men who really understand Japanese civilization. Of these two of the most experienced are Joseph Clark Grew, United States under-secretary of state and formerly ambassador to Tokyo, and Sir George Sanson, long a member of the British embassy in Tokyo and generally regarded as the greatest living authority on Japan in the western world.

Says Mr. Grew: "It is my belief, a belief not subject to proof but based on my long experience among the Japanese people, that when once the military machine . . . has been defeated, largely destroyed and rendered impotent to fight further, it will lose one of the most important of oriental assets, namely, 'face,' and will become discredited throughout the length and breadth of the land. I have said that the Emperor did his best to restrain his high command, the admirals and the generals from incurring war with the United States and Great Britain. He did not want war. I am aware of this from intimate knowledge . . . Had the Emperor rebelled in 1941, I have little doubt but that another Shogunate—whether under General Tojo or some other military dictator—would have been established. The military would have had their way, emperor worship to the contrary notwithstanding."

SIR GEORGE SANSON believes that: "Plans to dictate to Japan reforms in her system of domestic government are likely to engender more antagonism than agreement. The important thing is not so much that the Japanese should be told to abolish distasteful features of their system as that they should have some positive notions of what to put in their place."

After defeat in the war, says Sir George, the Japanese "for better or for worse will work out their own system by trial and error upon the basis of their own traditions. I do not venture to hazard a prediction, but I should not be surprised if, under favorable conditions, they developed a more modern and democratic type of constitutional monarchy."

IT IS these favorable conditions that the Allies are seeking to establish in Japan—ruthless extermination of the military clique and the industrial capacity to make war.

BOOST PENICILLIN OUTPUT

United Kingdom scientists have discovered two methods of producing penicillin on a tremendous scale: Potatoes—or even potato peelings—form the basis of the first method, which was developed by research workers of the Highgate Hospital, London, reports the British Medical Journal. After treatment with water and hydrochloric acid potatoes have been found to yield an extract which, after further simple treatment, provides a perfect medium for the growth of penicillin mould.

The second method, which was discovered by a young Glasgow doctor, is based on colchicine—a chemical which is used to increase growth of tobacco plants. For six months Dr. Gordon and Mr. J. McKenzie, his laboratory technician, have been trying to find an agent which would double the growth of penicillin mould. They have now discovered that colchicine produces six times as much as before. Moreover, penicillin produced by this new means is stated to be harder than any type previously grown.

B.C. Salmon Pack In 1945 May Smash 6-Year Record

Fisheries officers here today were enthusiastic that the British Columbia salmon pack this year, running ahead of the 1944 pack by well over 300,000 cases, would smash a six-year record.

Pack to last Saturday was 1,075,858 cases, compared with 713,696 at this time last year and 770,482 at the same time of 1943.

The increased pack is largely made up of pinks, although several other varieties including sockeye were well ahead of last year's pack at this time.

To date this year pinks canned have totaled 566,200 cases, compared with 306,911 cases at this time last year. The sockeye pack now stands at 318,307, against 240,748 at this time last year.

While the coho pack was up to 89,011 from 80,107 at this time last year, and the chum pack had swollen to 86,820 from 66,221 cases, the blueback pack was down to 6,660 cases from 11,811 cases at this time last year. Packs of steelheads and springs which together total less than 10,000 cases showed little variation.

Postwar Whaling Planned for Canada In Antarctic Sea

MELBOURNE, Australia (CP)—Whaling may form a new link between Canada and Australia if proposals now afoot for a Canadian whaling company become a reality.

Present plans are that the company, with $30,000,000 of Canadian and British capital, would take whales in the Antarctic, including waters near the Australian sector of Antarctica which covers 2,500,000 square miles, or nearly half of the south-polar region.

While it is planned that the company's main base be in the Maritime provinces of Canada, it might be found advisable to have a subsidiary base closer to the field of operations—in southern Australia or Tasmania.

Two whaling units are planned as a start for the enterprise. Each unit would require one mother ship, or floating factory of about 20,000 tons, to treat whales, and six small chasers to catch the huge sea mammals. Each of these units would cost $7,500,000.

It is estimated that it would cost about $1,350,000 a year to operate a unit which would produce approximately 20,000 tons of whale oil a year. Operating costs would work out to about $52 a ton. Present prices on the London market are $180 for a ton of whale oil, and $306 for sperm oil.

Before the outbreak of war, there were 44 whaling units at work under flags of Norway, Britain, the United States, Japan, Germany and Panama. It is understood that only four of these units now are in existence. Two have recently returned to whaling. Six of the 44 prewar units belonged to Japan and seven to Germany.

J. D. Dean of Dean, Clarke and Co. of London, has been visiting Canada to plan for the new whaling company along with Capt. Otto Borchgrevink, Norwegian whaling expert.

Allies Unprepared For Jap Surrender Says U.S. Admiral

ABOARD U.S.S. SOUTH DAKOTA, Tokyo Bay (AP)—Admiral Nimitz declared that the Japanese surrender came earlier than expected and caught the Allies before they were "fully prepared."

The surrender thus had something of the same unexpected element as the Pearl Harbor attack, correspondents noted as they talked Wednesday with the bronzed, white-haired Fleet Admiral in the big cabin of his flagship.

Nimitz, who had come aboard shortly after arriving from his Guam headquarters, credited sea power with paving the way for Nippon's sudden decision to quit.

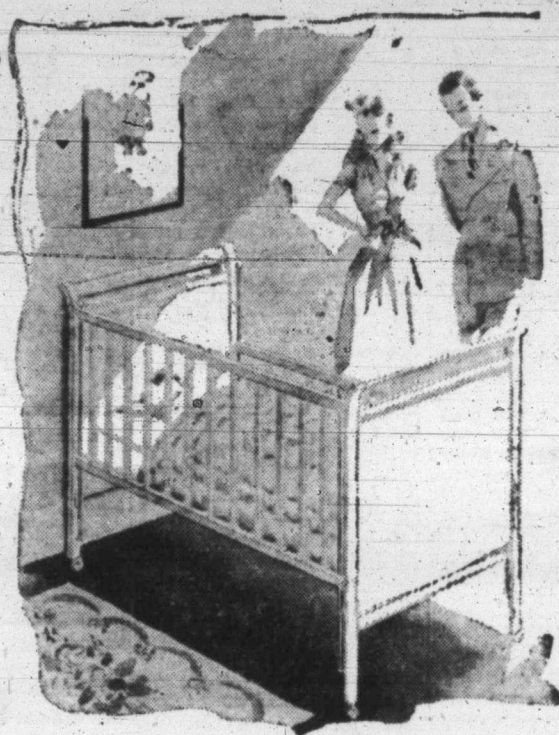

"One thing," he said, "that should impress every thinking person is that an island empire with an army intact—a well-equipped army—with a very large air force but practically no navy was brought to surrender before any land assaults had taken place."

"That was brought about by sea power—sea power spearheaded by our carrier-borne aircraft, aided by the very excellent and efficient work of our submarine force, the first United States force to be in these waters in the early part of the war."

Wrens Celebrate Third Birthday With Parade

Stepping out in navy fashion, shoulders back, arms swinging and with navy blues smartly pressed, over 300 Wrens from Moresby House, 1, 2 and 3, marched through downtown Victoria, Wednesday afternoon, led by the R.C.N. band. The saluting base was at the Crystal Garden, where Capt. G. D. Donald, N.O.I.C., Esquimalt, took the salute. With him were Mrs. W. C. Woodward, wearing a smart dressmaker suit of strawberry rose, a portrait beret of the same material and black and white accessories. Lt. Cmdr. Nora Allen, unit officer in charge at Esquimalt was also on the reviewing stand.

Planned as part of a birthday celebration — the Wrens were inaugurated in Canada just three years ago — the parade was also given in appreciation for kindness shown the girls by the people of Victoria. Among the Wrens themselves there was a certain nostalgia in the thought that this was possibly the last dress parade they will participate in before going back to peacetime occupations in civilian life.

Led by the band and with Lieut. N. Briscoe, W.R.C.N.S., as parade commander, the Wrens marched from the Parliament Buildings, up Belleville Street and along Douglas Street to the City Hall, where they were dismissed.

Later, as still a further part of their birthday celebration, the unit was entertained at tea aboard H.M.C.S. Uganda. Tonight the Wrens will entertain at a birthday dance at the Crystal Garden.

Moresby House at Esquimalt was opened just a little over three years ago by Lt. Cmdr. N. Allen, who came here from service in Newfoundland. She has been in command of the unit ever since.

In talking of her girls, Lt. Cmdr. Allen is very enthusiastic. "They are wonderful," she says, "there are very few defaulters. We have a system whereby each girl is really responsible to the whole unit for her conduct. At present we are very proud; four weeks without a defaulter, therefore a free day for every member of the unit."

Across Canada, in New York, Newfoundland and Washington, the Wrens celebrated their birthday with parties and special passes. They received congratulations from everyone who knows their work, from the admiral down.

The Wrens, working in 30 different categories, have played no small part in helping to win the war.

Opens Studio Here

Miss D. M. Bagshawe, who studied with the B.C. Dramatic School and the Dominion Academy, is opening a studio for both singing and speech arts. Speech, is an art, and an art worth cultivating. Miss Bagshawe, like music, is an asset in the business and professional world as well as in the social world. It has been said that good speech is often the open sesame to many a green field. But, voices left like unused pianos become discordant, out of tune, unattractive. Through proper use and exercise they are discovered to possess many lovely tone qualities able to command attention and call forth as much admiration as the singing voice.

STEPPING STONES TO ALTAR

A young woman whose goal is domesticity, and who evidently does not intend to overlook any bet, asks which has the better chance of marrying, a trained nurse or a private secretary?

Well, that is a hard question to answer, since both professions seem to hold priorities on the husband supply and the members thereof seem to possess an irresistible attraction for the opposite sex, whether married or single. So, wishing to furnish my correspondent with some accurate information, I passed on the query to two ladies who have qualified as experts on the subject.

"Nursing is the surest, quickest and easiest way in the world to 'catch' a husband," said the ex-nurse, who is now a contented wife and mother. "It beats all the parlor tricks, for she doesn't have to put on any cute acts, or even be glamorous. Nor does she have to lure a man into her toils. She has him at her mercy, flat on his back, scared he is going to die even if he only has a headache, and calling for help, and any woman who can soothe his fevered brow and straighten his pillows and make him a little more comfortable, looks like a ministering angel to him."

MEN ARE MEAK

"When a man is well, he may be a roaring lion of whom everybody stands in awe, but when he is ill he is as meek as Mary's little lamb, and Mary can herd him to the altar without his making a protest. Besides, the trained nurse has a lot of shots in her locker that the ordinary girl doesn't possess. For one thing, there is her uniform, which is the most becoming dress ever devised for a female and it is guaranteed to turn even a homely sister into a good-broker."

"Then the trained nurse has the opportunity to make herself necessary to her patient, and when a man gets to depend on a woman it is all over except sending out the wedding cards. A hospital ward or a sick room are the happy hunting ground for a girl in pursuit of a husband. Any trained nurse can marry the patient, the doctor or the intern. She has three strikes to the society girl's one."

"That the private secretary has a better chance of catching the matrimonial prize than any outsider is amply proven by the number of women who do it," said the ex-office wife who is now the real one. "The reason for this is obvious. For one thing, she knows every detail of her boss's affairs and can talk shop with him, which is more interesting to the average man than any other line of conversation."

"For another, she is his yes-woman who agrees with everything he says, or, if she doesn't, she holds her peace. She is his buffer that stands between him and bores. For still another reason, she is his clique that gives him a perpetual glad hand. So it isn't surprising that when the boss, especially if he isn't as young and romantic as he used to be, thinks about settling down and getting married that he picks out his private secretary, all of whose tricks and manners he thinks he knows and to which he has adjusted himself. Capturing her boss is so easy for a private secretary to do that it is hardly sporting, but it is what makes us ex-private secretaries look green-eyed at the pretty new girls in our husbands' offices."

When the young people returned to the manse, the honor guest was given a large framed picture as a gift from the assembled guests. Later, a buffet supper was served.

New Canadians Form Club In Edinburgh

EDINBURGH — One hundred and fifty "Canadians" hold general sessions twice a month in a gloomy old Edinburgh hall, but none have ever seen home. There isn't a native among them from Halifax, Toronto, Winnipeg or Vancouver. They haven't been to Niagara Falls and Dogpatch doesn't mean a thing to them, either.

But they can tell you why Canada's education system is an effective instrument of democracy; and why Canadian hospitals are models for the world; and the pro's and con's of farm life in the Dominion. You just can't fool them on dependents' allowances — questions or answers.

They are new Canadians — Scottish wives of Canadian servicemen — and they are not wasting time while they wait for Canada-bound boats. Twice a month they get together for a meeting of the "Auld Reekie Club," where they listen to lectures by visiting experts and see movies and ask questions — and generally get acquainted with "the unknown country."

The Auld Reekie Club — named after Edinburgh's dock, dominating castle on the rock — is one of several sponsored throughout Britain by the Canadian Wives Bureau, under the energetic leadership of Mrs. E. P. Lee, of Toronto, club organizer, who will soon return to Canada.

President of the Edinburgh organization is Mrs. M. R. Loosen, of Bathurst, N.B. Her husband who has since returned to the management of the Bathurst creamery, came to Britain as a pilot in the R.C.A.F.

German Women Best Clothed in Europe

Pictures which appeared in a July issue of the Sunday Graphic, published in London, Eng., featuring the summer attire—silk stockings and silk dresses among other things—of some German women, drew instant and vigorous attack, according to a later copy of the Graphic, just received in Victoria.

Writing from the Island of Jersey, which was occupied by the Germans early in the war and only liberated after "D" Day, a woman says:

"Today I look upon your pictures of the best dressed-women in Europe. It is easy for them to dress when all occupied countries were stripped bare of their possessions."

"The day the Germans arrived here, they raided every shop—they took clothing, furs, jewelry, furniture, cutlery, dishes, bedding, anything they could lay hands on while we had to go stockinged, shoeless, hatless."

Another letter suggests that as part of any reparations, each German woman should be required to provide one pair of new fully-fashioned, pure silk stockings and one new silk dress, to be sold in England coupon free and purchase tax free.

The Graphic makes note of the fact that Russia has already asked for 10,000 pairs of silk stockings from Rumania.

Fabulous Art Goes on Tour

LONDON (CP)—The trustees of the National Gallery have taken an unprecedented step in deciding to allow a dozen of the most important old masters in their world-famed collection to go out on tour in various parts of Britain.

The paintings, valued at £300,000 ($1,350,000), will be carried in a specially-designed motor van to ensure their safe conduct between Worthing, Wakefield, Derby, Norwich, Cardiff and other centres.

Included in the exhibition are four Rembrandts, one of them, "An Old Warrior," bought by the Barber Institute for £18,000 ($81,000).

Stretching Meat Rationing

With meat rationing scheduled to start up again in a matter of days to help out Europeans faced with a drastic shortage, smart housewives are making the family roast last longer and leftovers go further. Left-over meat takes to stretching especially well when an interesting flavor like curry is used to give piquancy. The agriculture department consumer section suggests curry patties.

To make curry patties, combine two cups of soft, stale whole wheat bread crumbs, two cups of ground cooked meat, two teaspoons of chopped onion, ½ teaspoon of curry powder, ½ cup of gravy, one egg and salt and pepper to taste. Mix thoroughly. Melt two tablespoons fat in frying pan. Drop mixture into hot pan by spoonfuls. Flatten slightly and brown on both sides. This makes six servings.

U.S. Correspondent Says Britain Facing Toughest Winter

NEW YORK (AP)—The sudden termination of lend-lease has created a feeling of apprehension in Great Britain, Robert Bunnelle, Associated Press managing executive for the United Kingdom, said today following his arrival here from London.

"The British people feel that the abrupt manner in which lend-lease was ended was a slap in the face," he said. "Of course they knew lend-lease would end after the war was over, but they were counting on it to help them through the transition to peace. Now that it has been suddenly taken away, they realize they face what will probably be their toughest winter since the war started and they are pretty unhappy about it."

Bunnelle said the people in Britain had already experienced a let-down earlier this summer because they had failed to realize the fruits of victory as quickly as they had hoped.

"I think that feeling of discontent was one of the factors in the defeat of Churchill," he continued. "The overwhelming vote for the Labor Party was partly a protest against the severe limitations which came with the war."

He said that in his opinion the Labor Party in Great Britain was not as socialist as people in this country might be led to believe. Bunnelle said that the end of the war has meant little change for the average Briton, with food and fuel far below normal and housing in a critical condition.

There has been no increase in food rations, clothing is just as hard to get as it ever was and fuel just as scarce.

"WHEAT SHOT FROM GUNS MAKES A GRAND BREAKFAST!"

says LORETTA YOUNG

Starting in INTERNATIONAL PICTURES

LORETTA: Hello there, Mr. Quaker... how's the popular star of my breakfast table? Seems as though everyone knows about "Wheat Shot from Guns!"

QUAKER MAN: Yes, Loretta, those words are famous, and for a good reason—because "Shot from Guns" does make the world's tastiest ready-to-eat cereal! You see, we actually load giant guns with plump, golden grains of wheat! Then—BANG! BANG!—they explode 8 times normal size... so tender, so crisp, they're enjoyed in millions of homes.

LORETTA: Just looking at those glorified grains does my appetite good!

QUAKER MAN: Another thing, Quaker Puffed Wheat is easily digested, too. It gives quick food energy, which is especially important at the start of the day. What other breakfast could give you the nourishment of wheat and be so delicious.

LORETTA: Thanks for the tip, Mr. Quaker. I'll remember that red and blue package.

WAR VETERANS' CORNER

GETS P.O.W. PARCEL IN VICTORIA

After almost a year of traveling, a personal parcel sent to a prisoner of war in Stalag Luft III reached its addressee Wednesday — back in Victoria. Torn and stained, but still in good internal condition, the parcel gave no indication whether it actually had been in Germany. It was sent in September, 1944, to Flt. Lt. R. O. Marlon, and contained a pullover, shorts, handkerchiefs, shaving and sewing equipment, canned food and, still as welcome as ever, candy, chocolate bars and two pounds of sugar.

RECORD APPLICATIONS

Application for membership in local branches of veterans' organizations are reaching record figures as an increasing number of servicemen return home.

Major Percy A. Leonard, born in Victoria, has resigned his commission to accept an appointment as sales engineer of the Canadian Marconi Company in Vancouver. It is announced by Assistant General Manager Walter J. Gray. Major Leonard joined the Marconi organization in 1913 as radio officer on vessels of the Canadian Pacific B.C. fleet. He served in the navy during the first war and then, rejoining the company, specialized in design and development of radio equipment until he joined the Signal Corps in 1940.

DENTISTS BRUSHING UP

Army dentists who will return shortly to civilian practices in Canada are taking a refresher course in Holland in a school opened through the initiative of Lt. Col. R. H. MacDougall of Victoria, assistant director of dental services at Canadian Military Headquarters in London.

Military rank is forgotten in the school and new ideas in dentistry are imparted by expert instructors, two of whom are Capt. Kirk Oviatt of Vancouver and Lloyd Jacobson of New Westminster. Net effect of the course is to bring the dentists right up to the minute in their profession and ready to enter civilian practice again—civilian practice which will include treatment of many veterans' made tooth-conscious during service life.

SHOE-MAKING PROFITABLE

A good future in the shoe-making and repair business awaits a lot of ex-servicemen, according to Toronto shoemaker Jim J. Houghton.

Houghton is one of many businessmen co-operating with rehabilitation boards in training veterans in vocations of their choice.

"Nearly all the old shoemakers are dying off and very few young fellows have been trained in this business," Houghton says. "A young man interested in it can make a good living in the shoe repair business alone, especially in a small centre."

C.W.A.C. WIVES OUT FAST

Accelerated discharges are being granted to Canadian Women's Army Corps personnel who are the wives of discharged servicemen.

C.W.A.C. wives whose husbands are not yet discharged, but who wish to leave the service for the purpose of establishing homes, will now be given the opportunity for early discharge according to an announcement of the Defence Department. Both officers and other ranks can apply.

34,000 BACK IN AUGUST

A total of 34,000 service personnel are expected to have returned to Canada during August from the United Kingdom and Europe, according to Defence headquarters announcement. From V.E. Day to July 31 about 70,000 service personnel returned.

The only Canadian commitment in the European theatre is in relation to the Canadian army and air force contingents which are being provided for the present phase of the occupation of Germany. The army contingent totals about 25,000 all ranks.

Mr. Maitland warned that, while the 40-mile speed limit had been lifted, the offence of driving to the common danger still holds. Instructions are going out to provincial police traffic officers to curb speed on highways,

Fairbridge School Complaint Answered

Criticism with regard to the recent arrival at Fairbridge Farm School, Duncan, of 27 new pupils from England was answered by school authorities upon request of Cowichan Branch Canadian Legion.

The suggestion had been made that passenger space used by the pupils might better have been used for repatriating veterans and their wives and dependents. School authorities stated that the children were brought over on a cargo vessel, in accommodation which could not have been used for the purpose suggested. Some of the children had been on a waiting list for over four years.

Explanation of the authorities was considered reasonable and satisfactory by Legion officers.

Duncan Hall to House Returning Servicemen

"DUNCAN—Sleeping accommodation for single veterans in the upper story of the Agricultural Hall, will be established through the co-operation of the Cowichan Branch Canadian Legion and Cowichan Agricultural Society.

Single men with work awaiting them have had to leave town for want of shelter. Hope has been expressed that the rooms with costs and furnishings will be supplied from military depots. Accommodation can be provided for about 30 single men and bookings will be arranged through the Legion.

Gesture Necessary In Speechmaking

Next in order to speech, gesture is the most necessary weapon to win an audience and the most difficult to persuade a student to adopt, Frank Paulding, general secretary of the Y.M.C.A. said in an address on "Gesture" to the Victoria "Y" Speakers' Club in the Y.M.C.A.

"It should of course never be artificial but a spontaneous expression of personality in action, endeavoring to communicate, to color, to reveal and to emphasize," Mr. Paulding said.

The most useful type of gesture for the average speaker was the emphatic gesture, he said, and almost as effective was the indicative gesture. "The greatest obstacle to effective gestures that the students has to overcome is the feeling of artificiality and ineffectiveness when gestures are first attempted. This can be overcome by feeling the necessity of physical integration with the voice and by practice," Mr. Paulding said.

After the address, each member gave a practice speech on either introductions, presentations of votes of thanks.

Opening of the winter season was set for Oct. 2. The program committee will meet at the Y.M.C.A. Sept. 11 to map out the program for the season.

Biggest Job Lies Ahead

C. A. MUDGE

The job of finding square holes in which to fit the square pegs that stream through employment offices has been the task of Charles J. Mudge, Victoria manager of National Selective Service, since the inception of that organization, and for five years before that with the provincial employment service. He served his apprenticeship in this business of dealing with human beings and helping them sort out their daily living difficulties as officer in charge of single men's relief in the city relief office for five years.

A tall, slow-speaking man with a kindly manner, Mr. Mudge is not the type to let authority go to his head, or become hidebound in the red tape of the volume of regulations governing manpower and its movement in a Canada at war for almost six years.

As each employment problem has come up its solution has seemed more difficult than the last, but in his quiet methodical way Mr. Mudge has kept the wheels of the Selective Service office turning efficiently with a staff that grew from 14 in March, 1942 when National Selective Service was inaugurated, to 60 at the present time. The task of placing the men and women of Victoria's war industries in peacetime employment will mean a still more increased staff to a possible 67 or 70.

Mr. Mudge was born in Exeter, Devonshire, England, and came to Canada as a young man in 1907. His first years in Canada were spent working on prairie farms and he was on such a job north of Calgary when World War I broke out in 1914.

He could not wait to enlist in Western Canada and set out for England to get into the fight more quickly. However, he stopped off en route at Toronto and enlisted there, with the 3rd Canadian Infantry Battalion. He served overseas from 1915 to April 1919.

He was wounded in the hand and the latter part of his overseas service was with the army of occupation in Germany. Almost immediately upon his return from overseas he married the girl he had met and courted while stationed at Toronto.

They have two children, Charles E. Mudge, with the medical section of the R.C.A.F. for the past five years, and Audrey, who is at home.

Until 1931 he operated a flour and feed business in Grand Forks. Then he came to Victoria to take up his duties with the relief office, under E. G. Snowden, relief officer. After five years at this he took charge of the provincial employment service.

ADDED RESPONSIBILITIES In 1941 the Unemployment Insurance Commission took over all provincial employment services and their staffs, who were later qualified for Dominion civil service by the examinations, and Mr. Mudge became the manager. In March, 1942, National Selective Service was brought into being and the responsibilities of the staff increased accordingly.

With the cessation of the war National Selective Service, with its innumerable restrictions and regulations coming to an end and on Sept. 17 the freeze order on labor in designated establishments will be lifted. With that the Selective Service office will revert to its original role as the Victoria branch office of the Unemployment Insurance Commission.

The work of the office will be divided into two main divisions, unemployment insurance and employment service. It will no longer be compulsory for employers and employees to register positions or for employment once all the present restrictions are lifted, but the employment service will be there to serve both employers and workers.

A special employer relations section is being set up, Mr. Mudge explained, which will be the "sales" department of the employment section. Members of the staff will have the task of interesting employers in the services offered, taking orders, endeavoring to fill the requirements of the employer, and endeavoring to find jobs for those seeking them.

The unemployment insurance offices all across Canada will work together and when workers are needed for any job and are not available in the particular locality, efforts will be made to obtain them elsewhere.

During the past week between 350 and 450 job seekers have gone through the office daily, with 453 a week ago Monday. The normal daily turnover has been about 250 a day, Mr. Mudge said. With the sudden cessation of the shipbuilding here, the men released from their jobs were bewildered and somewhat resentful at first.

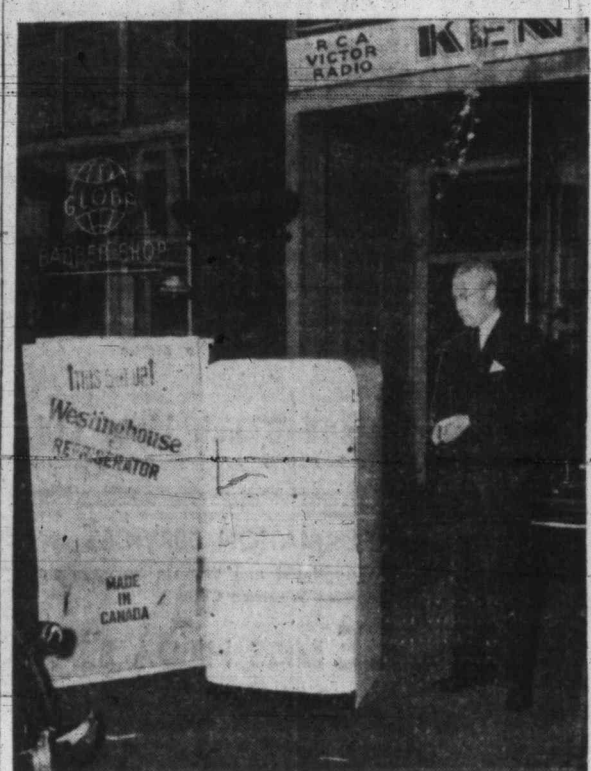

However, now they are coming into the office prepared to accept peacetime employment and he has hopes that before many weeks are past he will be caught up on the situation—have the backlog of labor orders filled for the 3,000 needed in logging camps and in other industries denuded of manpower during the war years.

The postwar organization of the employment service is all drawn up, both for the remodeling of the quarters on the corner of Broughton and Langley Streets, and for the more efficient organization of the staff. All appointments to the staff must come through the Civil Service Commission, after open competition in examinations, Mr. Mudge pointed out.

Every morning from 8.30 to 9 a special staff training course are held and periodically individual members of the staff are sent to Vancouver or even to Ottawa for special courses in employment service work.

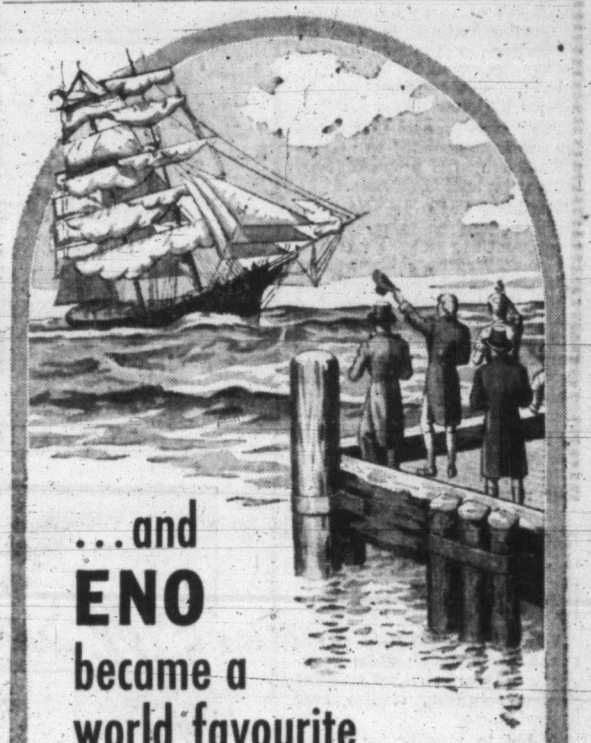

Possibly the most entertaining incident in the years of hard work keeping Victoria's manpower used to the greatest advantage for the war effort, was the man who came in for a "companion-housekeeper, object matrimony." There was little difficulty experienced in filling the job, Mr. Mudge recalled and last time heard of the man and his "companion-housekeeper" were happily married. However, he warned that the last thing in the world they want to set up is a matrimonial bureau branch of the employment office.

First Refrigerator Arrives!

J. C. Bosch, Managing Director of Kent-Roach Limited, large Electrical Appliance Store on Yates Street, is shown viewing the first Westinghouse refrigerator to arrive in three years. The model shown above is a model K 45 Dual Automatic Westinghouse which is being delivered to the Cunningham Drug Company, who have selected this Westinghouse Model for its accuracy in maintaining the desired temperature for the storing of the wonder drug Penicillin.

Mr. Bosch pointed out that it will be some time yet before refrigerators will be available to the public, but suggests that all those who have placed orders for future delivery with his firm should renew their order for priority in delivery. Just as soon as refrigerators are available we will advise our clients and do all in our power to fulfill their needs, he concluded.

world favourite

From a small chemist shop in Newcastle, England, during the nineteenth century, seafaring men set forth with packets of a new remedy that had outstanding properties for correcting internal ills. They took this new medicine with them wherever they sailed the seven seas.

It was thus that the story of Eno's 'Fruit Salt' spread wherever the British race journeyed. And today, Eno is enthusiastically endorsed by millions of men and women the world over to help keep them fit when needed.

Take pleasant-tasting Eno in a glass of water before breakfast. Eno helps settle an upset stomach, helps nature free the system of food wastes that often cause constipation and headaches, helps relieve excess gastric acidity. Eno is gentle but effective in its action, safe for young and old alike. Buy a large economical bottle of Eno's 'Fruit Salt' from any druggist today.

Labor Group Plans Transport Committee

The Vancouver Island Joint Labor Conference is laying plans to sponsor a meeting of representatives of every organization in Greater Victoria, to set up a committee to promote unified transportation under a commission, the City Council was informed by letter today.

The "wide support that exists for public ownership" will be co-ordinated by the proposed committee, the letter continues.

The labor group urge that immediate steps be taken by the City Council to set up a fact-finding committee on transportation to work in conjunction with the other three municipalities, and are strongly of the opinion that "no franchise be granted any transportation company before a thorough investigation of the whole matter be made."

They suggest that the matter of a unified transportation system for the area should be linked with the amalgamation of the four municipalities.

3 Service M.L.A.'s For Manitoba House

WINNIPEG (CP)—The size of the 55-member Manitoba Legislature is to be increased by three service members, it has been learned.

A bill to provide for service members will be introduced at the special session of the House opening Sept. 4.

It is expected a provincial election will be held possibly between Oct. 22 and 29.

Concert Parties To Have Banquet

In an expression of the community's thanks to members of the various concert parties who have entertained the services during the war, the Citizens War Services Committee of Greater Victoria Entertainment Committee will hold a banquet in the lower ballroom of the Crystal Garden next Wednesday evening at 7.

Concert parties to be invited are Red Triangle, Scottish Society, Red Shield, Versatiles, Victoria Girls' Drill Team, Bonnie Ward's, Victoryettes and Victoria Girls' Pipe Band.

Lieutenant-Governor W. C. Woodward, civic and provincial heads and heads of the three services will also be invited. Entertainment will be provided by Vancouver artists.

1,000,000 Fewer Hogs

EDMONTON (CP)—Deputy Agriculture Minister O. S. Longman today estimated Alberta will market about 1,000,000 fewer hogs this year than in 1944. This would represent a gross loss of $26,000,000 in farm revenue and also a loss of a home market for about 20,000,000 bushels of feed grain at double existing market values.

Oak Bay Wants Houses Completed

Oak Bay Council suggested at its meeting Wednesday that contractors should be allowed to complete houses for which permits already have been issued, rather than the municipality seeking the construction of low-cost houses for veterans.

Councillor P. A. Moir moved that a copy of a letter on the subject already sent to the Citizens' Rehabilitation Committee should be sent to the Victoria and District Zone Council of the Canadian Legion. The Legion Council had asked if Oak Bay Municipality planned to follow the policy of Victoria in seeking construction of low-rental houses for veterans by Wartime Housing Ltd.

The letter sent to the Canadian Legion said: "The alternative suggested by the Oak Bay Council for supplying houses for veterans is for the government to remove the preference given to Wartime Housing Ltd., to put all contractors on the same level as regards material and labor, and to allow all houses for which permits have been issued to be proceeded with."

"I don't think veterans are looking for wartime homes," said Councillor Moir.

Wiring in Oak Bay is inspected by the Victoria inspector, and the by-laws of the municipality and city are similar, the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers will be informed. The organization wrote to the council urging a system of efficiency certificates to restrict incompetent electricians.

The 1946 convention of Toastmasters' International Inc. will be held in Seattle next June, according to word received by Barrie Gault, president of the Victoria Toastmasters' Club, today. During the convention the International Speech Contest will be held.

ONLY A few pounds over his best hockey weight, Lieut. Syl Apps is one fellow who should not experience a great deal of trouble getting back into major league action when he returns to civilian life. Chatting to the big centre of the Toronto Maple Leafs, who is visiting Victoria for the Pacific Command track and field championships, he declared it was his intention to give National Hockey League play another whirl. "Of course, my wife may hit me over the head with a rolling pin, but I just want to see what I can do after being away from serious competition for over two seasons," he said. Apps has no idea of just when he will receive his discharge so cannot make any plans for the future.

Apps is fully cognizant of the problems he faces in getting back in major hockey. He pointed out that a lot of youngsters have come along fast since he left the league and they are going to make it plenty tough for the veterans returning to the line-ups. "Hockey players are a lot different from baseballers," Apps said. "Usually there is a piece of ground on which a ball player can get some kind of a workout to keep the important muscles in condition but it is not always easy for a hockey player to locate a sheet of ice. Take myself, for instance. During the last two winters I have played in mighty few games and lack of play is certain to have taken the polish off my skating and stickhandling. I saw several N.H.L. games last winter and the calibre of hockey was not bad considering so many players have been lost to the services. The present players are placing a lot of emphasis on skating and that is going to make it tough for the fellow getting back into the picture."

Apps had no little fun at the expense of Archie McKinnon, physical director of the Y.M.C.A. When the Canadian track team journeyed to Berlin for the Olympic Games in 1936 McKinnon and Apps became real friends. I will remember McKinnon paying high tribute to Syl when he returned from that trip. As a matter of fact Archie described him as his choice for the number one athlete on the Canadian squad. He not only admired his athletic ability but also his clean living and mental outlook on life in general. On arriving in Victoria Apps phoned the "Y" and when McKinnon answered said: "This is Syl Apps speaking." Archie, figuring one of his young tracksters was pulling a gag, replied: "Oh yea. Who do you think you're kidding?" It took Apps a few minutes to persuade McKinnon everything was on the level.

MAKING his first visit to the Pacific Northwest Apps, like the majority of easterners, likes the country, especially the climate. It was to take advantage of the trip to Victoria that Apps went into three weeks' training for his track specialty, the pole vault, and earned himself a position on the Vernon School of Infantry team. At the height of his track career Apps was able to hit 13 feet 6 inches and today the big fellow can clear 11 feet. I will be much surprised if he doesn't do better than that tomorrow at Macdonald Park.

Detroit Drops Another

Al Benton's form reversal has Detroit fans guessing today with the early-season sensation running a three-game losing streak, and the Tigers' lead sliced to a single length.

The former sailor who started the 1945 campaign with five successive victories has not finished any of his last five starting jobs.

Boston Red Sox, New York Yankees, and Washington knocked him off the hill, Philadelphia Athletics and Cleveland shaded him after he had given way to a relief artist, and last night St. Louis Browns beat him 5 to 4.

Benton's defeat by the Browns came at the hands of Bob Muncrief, who is just about the hottest thing in the best win record in the 10 to 2 in either circuit.

Washington fumbled another chance to close in on the Tigers when they split a two-night doubleheader with Philadelphia, taking the first 3 to 2, with the help of a double error by catcher Greek George, but bowing in the final 2 to 1. The Nats picked up halfgame on Detroit, but could have gone into a virtual tie for the lead if they had been able to cop both ends.

Lefty Vic Johnson chilled New York's chances of moving ahead with a 1 to 0 job on behalf of Boston. Singles by Forest and Metkovich, followed by Bob Johnson's fly in the fourth inning, nullified Bill Zuber's matching four-hit trick.

Cincinnati's tattered Reds, who had won only four of their last 25 before St. Louis came to town, continued to blast the Cardinals' hopes. Vern Kennedy did the 3 to 1 job on the Red Birds yesterday, defeating Blix Donnelly, who was making his first appearance in almost a month.

Chicago stretched its National League advantage to 4½ games by knocking off Pittsburgh 2 to 0. After Ray Prim wilted in the 9½ degree heat, Hy Vandenberg came on to complete the whitewash job.

Launch Drive for $35,000 to Back Pro Baseball Club

Committee composed Johnny Johnson, George Straith, Arthur Cox, Laurel Harney, J. Neely and Mrs. A. M. Gates today opened a canvass of the city to raise $35,000 to finance a Victoria professional baseball team in the Western International League.

Members of the committee stated today they planned to contact as many Victorians as possible with a view to raising the desired sum by the end of the week. They are hoping to gain the support of the city's businessmen as they feel a pro ball team will provide much needed entertainment here during the summer months.

Anybody interested in making a contribution and not contacted is asked to get in touch with any member of the committee. Neely can be contacted any time during the day at the Douglas Hotel.

Harney, who has played a prominent part in negotiations to secure a franchise for Victoria, announced today he had been contacted by Eddie Leishman, coach and scout of the Oakland A's in the Pacific Coast League, with a view to getting a working agreement with the local team should it gain entry into the W.I.L. The Oakland interests requested Harney's presence in the California city as soon as possible if the franchise is secured at the meeting of the W.I.L. session in Tacoma on Sept. 9.

Canadian Beaten

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (CP)—Canada's last surviving entrant in the United States national lawn tennis championships bowed out of the second round of the men's singles Wednesday, while in both men's and women's events the results ran largely true to form.

Brendin Macken of Montreal, the big blond who conquered John Van Ryn in straight sets Tuesday, fell before the combination of one of New York's hottest days this summer and the smooth stroking of 16-year-old Buddy Behrens of Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

Playing his usual strong forecourt game, Macken took the first set from his youthful adversary—1944 national boys' champion—at 6-3 and led early in the second set. But Behrens rallied, ran out the second at 6-3 and took the clinching set by the same score, coming to the net himself to score repeated placements over the tiring invader.

Sgt. Frankie Parker, Lieut. Seymour Greenberg and air cadet Bob Falkenberg led the field into the quarter-final round.

In the women's division, Pauline Betz and Mrs. Sarah Paley Cooke advanced through the second round into the quarter-finals.

Fastball Finals

Adverts Beat Foster's

After dropping the first game Adverts came back last night to defeat Joe Foster's 7 to 5 and tie up the playoff for the women's senior B city fastball championship.

The clubs will meet in the third and deciding clash Friday night at Central Park, starting at 6:15.

Pushing across seven runs in the first two innings, Adverts halted all efforts of Foster's to get back into contention. Five hits by McDonald, D. Mitchell, Malr, McCulloch and Booth gave the Adverts four runs in the last of the first.

Famous Athlete Welcomed to City

Renewing a friendship that began at the Olympic Games in Berlin in 1936, Coach Archie McKinnon, left, shakes hands with Lieut. Syl Apps, former Canadian champion pole vaulter and centre ice star of the Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League. Apps is in the city from Vernon to participate in the Pacific Command track and field championships at Macdonald Park tomorrow afternoon. McKinnon, physical director of the Y.M.C.A., traveled to Berlin for the Olympiad as coach of the Canadian track squad.

V.M.D. Blank Flyers 10-0

Stroulger Hits Homer

Making 11 hits, including a home run over the centre field fence by shortstop Charlie Stroulger, good for 10 runs, V.M.D. blanked the R.C.A.F. in last night's city championship baseball semifinal playoff game. Victory gave the shipbuilders a 2 to 0 game lead and made them solid favorites to wind up the series Saturday afternoon.

Friday night the Navy and Army clubs continue their other semifinal, with the former holding a two-game margin as the result of successive triumphs.

With Tommy Musgrave pitching four-hit ball and being given the lead in the first inning, there was never any doubt about the final outcome of last night's affair. Musgrave struck out eight, and the couple of times he was in danger of losing his shutout bore down to shut the gate in the face of the Flyers.

Bill McDonald was the starting hurler for the Flyers, but left in the fourth inning after four runs had pushed across four runs to take a 7 to 0 lead, being replaced by Doug Sutton. The latter hurried shutout ball for two innings, but gave up three more runs in the seventh.

Cliff Kilburn, R.C.A.F. pitcher, was forced out of the game when a foul tip split one of his fingers, and will be lost to the club for the balance of the season.

O. Stong, Vancouver, won the prize for low gross.

Tournament attracted entries from Vancouver and New Westminster in addition to a big local contingent.

McEwan was second in the clubhouse on completion of play. L. Lewis, Vancouver, extended an invitation to Victoria shoemen to participate in the mainland tournament next month.

C.W.A.C. WIN

Entries will close with the secretary of the Victoria club.

Racing Here Opens Sept. 8

According to word received today from Walter Geoghegan of the Vancouver Thoroughbred Racing Association, Victoria's annual 14-day race meet will open at the Willows, Saturday, Sept. 8, as scheduled.

When the current meeting at Hastings Park in Vancouver was delayed two days in opening owing to trouble between the horsemen and association over purse distribution, it was thought the Victoria meeting might not open until Sept. 12. As it stands now, racing will close at Vancouver on Wednesday, Sept. 5 and resume here three days later.

Seattle Sweeps Pair To Gain on Portland

The onrushing Seattle Rainiers zoomed to within a game and a half of the kingpin Portland Beavers today in one of the hottest first-place battles the coast league has seen in years.

The Rainiers cut Portland's previous three-tilt lead in half last night by sweeping a doubleheader from the Sacramento Solons, 2 to 1 and 5 to 0, as the Beavers were losing, 9 to 3, to the San Diego Padres.

This is the closest Seattle has been to the pacesetter since June 4, when the two teams were separated by the same margin.

On August 5 Portland paced the pack by eight games and apparently had the 1945 title clinched. Then the weary Beavers began slipping and have won only 17 out of their last 25 games while the driving Rainiers were taking 17 out of 24. Portland has 30 games to play before the season ends; Seattle 31.

While interest centred on the fight for first, the San Francisco Seals slipped into third place, two tilts ahead of Sacramento, by whipping the Los Angeles Angels 3 to 0 and 4 to 3. Big Bob Joyce registered his 29th victory of the season in the opener with a three-hit performance.

Oakland made it two straight over the Hollywood Stars, 12 to 1, to advance within four games of the first division.

12TH STRAIGHT WIN

Seattle's 2 to 1 decision over Sacramento in the curtain-raiser gave right-hander Guy Demoran his 12th consecutive triumph and 18th of the year. Scheduled for seven innings, the game went into two extra frames before Ted Norbert smashed out a home run to give the Rainiers their winning tally. Guy Fletcher, the Solon's 22-game ace, was charged with the loss, his 12th. Glenn Elliott's five-hit hurling gave Seattle the nightcap, 5 to 0.

San Diego drove submariner Ad Liska off the mound in crushing Portland, 9 to 3, as Vallee Eaves was nothing his 19th win of the season. The defeat, Liska's 10th, prevented the veteran right-hander from being the circuit's third pitcher to break into the 20-win circle.

1,000,000 Eggs To Leave Victoria For British Order

Going to New Westminster to help swell the total to 2,750,000 dozen — the largest shell egg shipment from British Columbia to Britain — will be more than 1,000,000 eggs from Victoria.
The shipment, valued at $1,250,000, is scheduled to leave New Westminster for Britain in October aboard a refrigerated ship. The British Ministry of Food has directed that the shipment be made by the all-water route via the Panama, rather than by rail across Canada and then by ship across the north Atlantic.

Now in cold storage at A. P. Slade & Co. Ltd. here are 90,000 dozen eggs gathered at poultry farms south of Duncan during the last few weeks. Next week workers will start unpacking, re-grading and repacking these eggs for shipment to New Westminster early in October.

More island eggs are being shipped to the mainland for the huge order from Nanaimo where they are being collected from poultry ranches north of Duncan. There are no storage facilities in Nanaimo so the eggs are being held at Vancouver.

R. A. Lipsey, manager of the A. P. Slade & Co. here, estimated the Nanaimo shipments may exceed those made from Victoria. Mr. Lipsey believed a market for Vancouver Island eggs was assured for 1946 and probably for 1947.

Auto Union Urges Board Survey Before More Gas Licenses

A survey to insure profitable operation of service stations now in business and new stations which may be licensed was urged Wednesday night to the B.C. a draft of 10 ft. Displacement is 692 tons.

Public Utilities Board by the Automotive Maintenance Workers' Union, meeting at the Liberal Hall.

The union unanimously endorsed a letter to be sent to Dr. W. A. Carrothers, chairman of the board, urging that a survey be conducted in all localities before gasoline pump licenses were granted by the board.

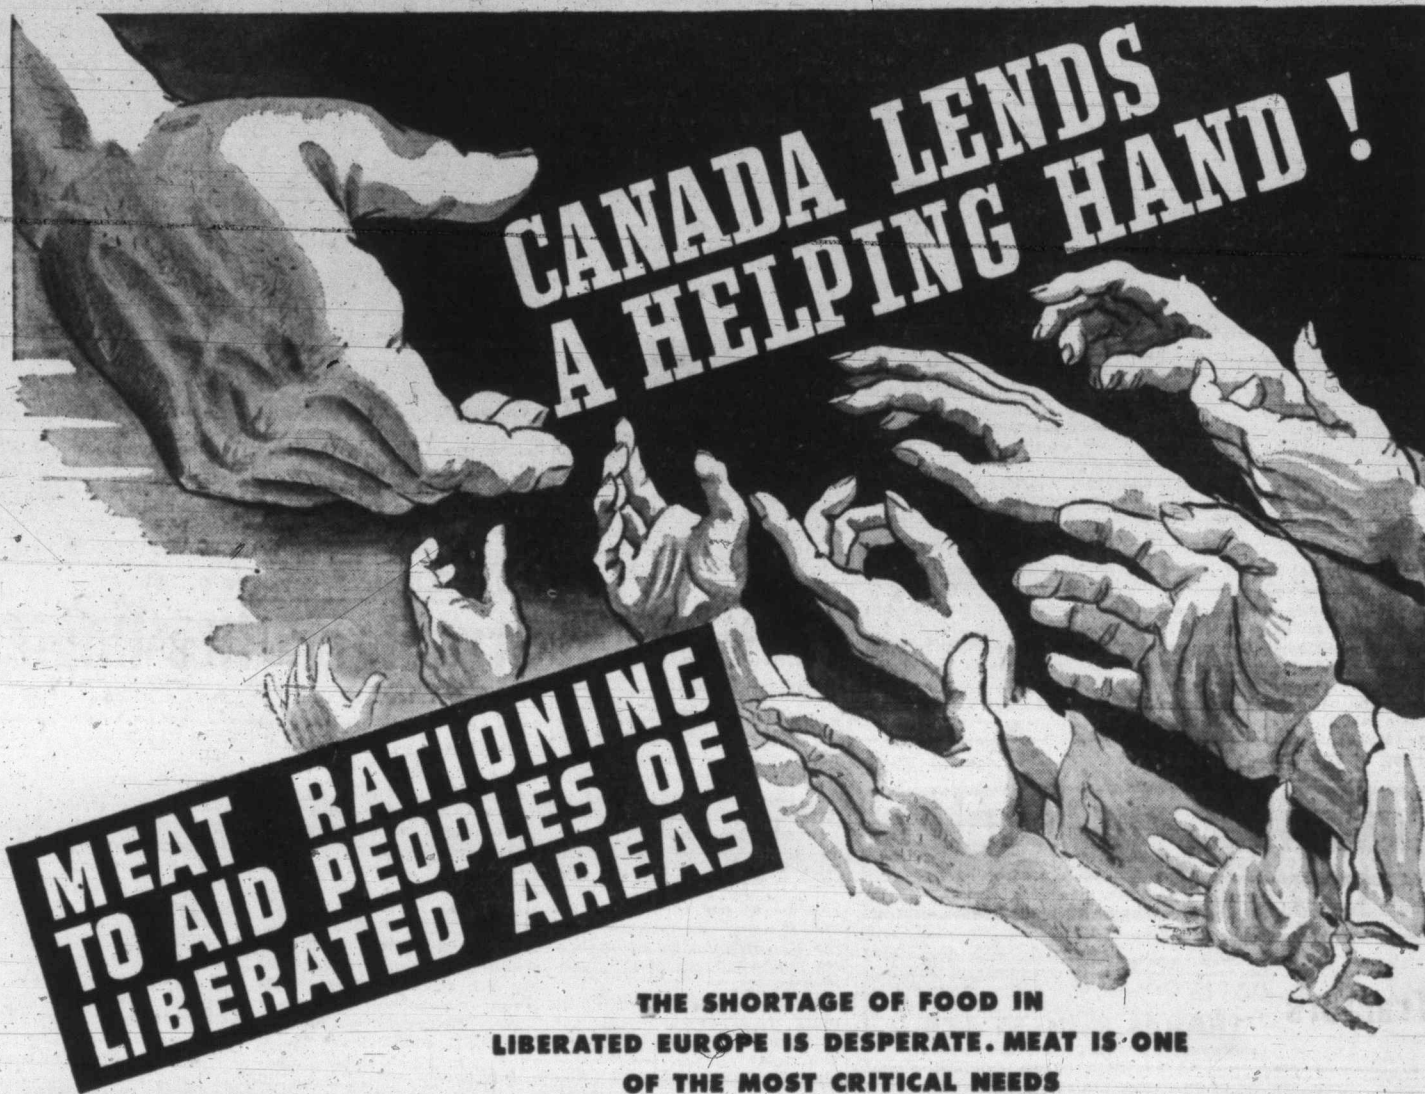

Six new members were initiated to the union.
Responding to the call of the Vancouver Island Joint Labor Conference for member unions to name delegates to a meeting of the conference's joint civic elections committee Sept. 16, the union named Tom Pichell as delegate.

The union went on record as being unanimous that all possible action be taken to attain a modern port for Victoria. A letter will be forwarded to R. W. Mayhew, M.P., urging that he use all his influence to secure a better port and a modern machine shop at the H.M.C. Drydock for heavy repairs.

Endorsement was given the recommendation of the Victoria and District Trades and Labor Council that old age pensions be increased and that the compulsory school age be raised to 18.

Union members felt that certification process, recommended in comprehensive reports of the unions' legislative and executive committees, should be instituted for all tradesmen in the automotive industry as soon as possible for protection of the motoring public.

THE SHORTAGE OF FOOD IN LIBERATED EUROPE IS DESPERATE. MEAT IS ONE OF THE MOST CRITICAL NEEDS

Average daily adult rations in European countries, including domestic produce and imported foodstuffs, are scarcely more than half the average adult consumption on the North American continent. On this basis severe hardship is inevitable. Those who fought by our side in Europe are suffering hunger and misery.

As a great food-producing nation, Canada must, can—and will—help to meet this emergency. Apart from moral obligations, adequate nourishment is vital to the reconstruction of Europe and, in turn, to the stability and progress of the entire world.

That is why slaughtering has been placed under strict control.

That is why ration coupons will soon be used again by Canadians to buy meat.

There is only one objective: To reduce meat consumption in Canada in order to provide direct aid to the hungry peoples of Europe.

HOW ARE CANADA'S MEAT EXPORTS DISTRIBUTED?

Each year, the Combined Food Board of the United Nations, of which Canada is a member, estimates for the coming year world production of important food items and the probable demand for them. It then distributes the foods on the basis of these estimates. Estimates for 1945 indicate that demand for meat and bacon exceeds production by about 10%.

Canada's contributions of meat to the common pool have been large; they have helped to supply partially the needs of the hardest-pressed countries where it will take years to restore the production of meat.

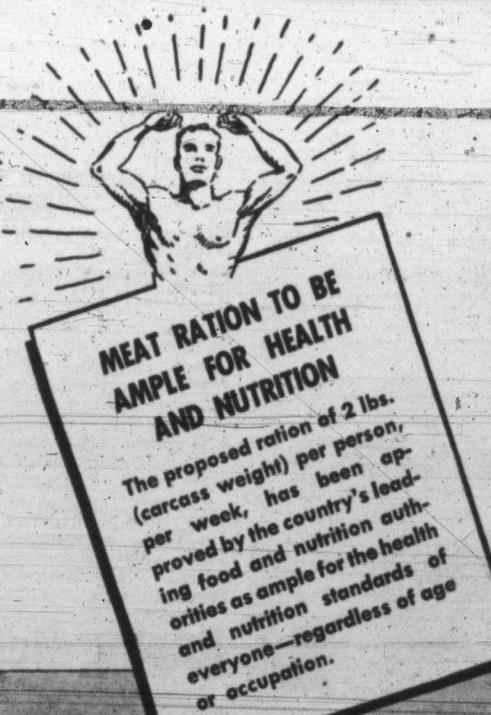

UNTIL RATIONING-CONSERVATION, PLEASE!

The urgent nature of overseas needs calls for immediate action. Because the machinery of meat rationing takes time to set up, conservation on a nation-wide scale is imperative.

As part of this plan, Tuesday and Friday of each week have been declared meatless days in all public eating places. Meatless days will be continued throughout the meat rationing period.

Further to reduce domestic meat consumption, all Canadians are urged to observe two meatless days a week in their own households.

DATES AND OTHER DETAILS REGARDING MEAT RATIONING — SOON TO BECOME EFFECTIVE IN CANADA — WILL BE ANNOUNCED LATER

MEAT RATION TO BE AMPLE FOR HEALTH AND NUTRITION
The proposed ration of 2 lbs. (carcass weight) per person, per week, has been approved by the country's leading food and nutrition authorities as ample for the health and nutrition standards of everyone—regardless of age or occupation.

Washers, Radios Will Be Back On Christmas Shopping List

A washing machine for mother, a radio for junior and the latest thing in iron for sister—these are not now postwar dreams but distinct possibilities for Christmas, 1945, or even sooner, according to a survey of local merchandising men today.

Goods which have been in short supply or practically non-existent for the past three or four years are expected to begin rolling in fair quantities by Nov. 1. By Christmas, the more optimistic merchandising men anticipate supplies which will take care of a good portion of the demand.

"I imagine with the United States going into heavy production in October and November our Canadian manufacturers won't be far behind," one merchandising man said. "However, our manufacturers have given us nothing definite yet."

"We are still very short of supplies ranging from sweaters, ladies' underwear and corsets to washing machines and electrical appliances."

Abolition of the waiting list for items in Victoria was forecast by one businessman for Nov. 1. Several have been arriving from time to time, he said, but the number was nowhere near the demand.

"We expect a few radios before Christmas and we have had six to eight washing machines in the past month," he said. "The general outlook is picking up all the time."

Delivery of such articles as electric irons, electric stoves and refrigerators would be slower than on the smaller articles, he said. Some combination record player and radio sets are expected before Christmas, he added.

One furniture dealer forecast that within a six-month period the supply situation would be nearly back to normal.

Ask Injunction on Officers be Shelved

An application to set aside the injunction granted by Mr. Justice J. O. Wilson last Friday restraining three officers from acting in their positions in the Victoria Local of the Boilermakers' Union was made in Supreme Court chambers today by Joseph McKenna on behalf of the three men affected.

Grounds advanced by Mr. McKenna that the injunction be set aside were three: That no affidavits were served as the rules required, that the affidavits were sworn before the writ was issued and that the facts in the affidavits were not confined to such facts as the witnesses were able of their own knowledge to prove.

Mr. McKenna appeared on behalf of F. E. Cardwell, W. J.

Latta and P. T. Rose, the three local officers restrained by the injunction. Acting for the Shipyard General Workers' Federation supporters who obtained the order last week after an internal dispute in the union was John F. Burton of Vancouver.

Tuna Landings

Some 18,000 pounds of tuna were landed at B.C. Packers Ltd. and Western Fish Co. Ltd. late Wednesday and this morning.

At B.C. Packers, Helmar unloaded 3,574 pounds; Morris H., 2,902 pounds; Annie Tuck, 3,988 pounds.

At Western Fish, Salar landed 2,700 pounds; Rosalie, 5,000 pounds. In addition, Golden West unloaded 6,000 pounds of mixed coho and spring salmon.

Mid-Air Crash of Navy Fighters

New Meat Tokens Look Like This

Here is a reproduction of the tokens which are to be used in meat rationing. They are made of a fibreboard plastic are blue in color.

Each meat coupon equals eight tokens and under the new system it will be possible for small families and persons living alone to make purchases appropriate to their needs and receive their "change" in tokens.

When meat rationing was in force before a purchaser had to give up a full coupon, but now it will be possible to split purchases into smaller amounts by use of the tokens.

The tokens will also greatly reduce the amount of work to be done by retailers, wholesalers banks in handling coupons.

Uncertainty About Canadians Who Were Held in Orient

OTTAWA (CP)—The External Affairs Department today released a list containing the names of 609 Canadian civilians whom it said "are believed to be in Japanese hands," but stressed that the list was subject to change.

Some of the persons appearing on the list may have died and some next-of-kin addresses may have changed since the original information was secured, the department said.

Wednesday night the department announced it had learned from an Allied source that 19 Canadians, all members of religious orders, had been reported alive in Peiping, China. It released a list of the 19 names.

In making public today's list, it was stressed that it contained the names of civilians known to be Canadian nationals and did not include military prisoners of war.

No official information is yet available on liberation of Canadian soldier prisoners taken at Hongkong except that Prime Minister King has announced that under the Potsdam terms of surrender accepted by the Japanese, they were to be freed immediately.

Departmental officials have promised immediate advice to next of kin of any information concerning former prisoners of war held by the Japanese as soon as it becomes available.

Sir R. Burbidge Here to Inspect Amenity Ships

Sir Richard Burbidge, C.B.E., chairman of Harrods Ltd., London, and member of the board of management of the Navy, Army and Air Force Institutes, is in Victoria today looking over the amenity ships which are being fitted out on this coast for the entertainment of the British forces on the Pacific.

He is at the Empress Hotel with B. W. Roberts, general purchasing agent, Canadian Pacific Railway, Montreal.

After inspecting one of the amenity ships being fitted out here, Sir Richard said: "These ships are going to fill a very vital need. They will be a home from home for the men of the navy who are serving on the Pacific."

The N.A.A.F.I. is responsible for the entertainment equipment aboard the amenity ships, which embraces a floating cinema, and "not the least interesting," according to Sir Richard, a full-equipped brewery.

The running of the N.A.A.F.I. canteens is a civilian business, guaranteed by the British government.

"It's quite an experiment, but I think it will work out all right," said Sir Richard.

The amenity ship being fitted out at the V.M.D. No. 2 plant here, is the former Blue Funnel Line Ss. Agamemnon.

Another is being equipped at a Vancouver shipyard and will be inspected by Sir Richard when he arrives on the B.C. mainland.

American Newsboys Visiting Victoria

Their summer earnings as newsboys for the Port Angeles Evening News burning holes in their pockets, 18 youngsters are visiting Victoria today as a reward for sticking to their jobs during the holiday months.

Marvin Young, circulation manager of the paper, visited Albert Jones, circulation manager of the Times, today in the course of his tour with his 18 young charges, varying in age from 12 to 15 years. Also with the party are Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Trip of the Tacoma Times.

The idea of rewarding the boys who stayed on the job was originated last year, Mr. Young said when 25 of the lads were brought to Victoria for one day. They come up in a school bus, loaned by the Port Angeles Kiwanis Club, which keeps four such buses to be used by young people's organizations and groups for similar outings.

The lads have brought their sleeping bags and will spend the night at Cordova Bay at McMoran's pavilion. They plan on raiding Victoria shops today to take back curios and souvenirs, as well as other items of merchandise that are scarce in the United States.

Wrist watches are one item that the boys are particularly interested in, as well as filling up on good Canadian beefsteak.

The policemen's uniforms here, so different from those in the U.S., proved particularly intriguing to the youngsters.

They were taken to Crystal Garden, to the museum and to Butchart's Gardens during the day.

Town Topics

A building permit was issued to Neil B. Butler to erect a four-room house at 903 Bank Street, value $4,200.

Eight small fires were extinguished Wednesday afternoon and evening by city and municipal firemen. All were grass fires, except a small indoor fire at 1034 Queens Avenue and a minor roof-fire at 937 Galedonia Avenue.

Wireless Airgunner Donald Kovich was fined $30 in city police court today after pleading guilty to a charge of dangerous driving. His driver's license was suspended for one month. L.A.C. John Cleveland, charged with depositing broken glass on Quadra Street, was fined $5.

A wallet containing $170 in cash and a cheque for $179.22 were taken from a locker at Western Fish Co. by Benab Rupperts reported to city police, Wednesday. Binoculars and candy were reported missing from a boat in the inner harbor by Capt. Bruce Thomas.

Word has been received by the City Council that the list of building sites for the 150 War-time Houses being built for veterans has been sent on to Mr. Carter & Nairne of Vancouver, who will represent War-time Housing in all dealings connected with the final checking of the land schedule.

Postmaster George H. Gardiner announces there will be no delivery by letter carrier or rural mail carrier on Labor Day. Post office lockers will be open from 9 to 11 in the forenoon, and the lobby will be closed at 6 in the evening. All mails due, to be dispatched will be made up as usual. Evening street letter box collections only will be made.

The City Council is rewording its resolution to be presented to the Union of B.C. Municipalities next week so it clearly states that the enabling legislation would permit a five-day week for those shops that wish it, and not a four-and-a-half day week which would have been permitted under the original wording, Mayor Percy George said today.

Opening supper meeting for the winter season will be held by the Y.M.C.A. Toastmistresses' Club, Sept. 27, at 6 in the "Y." Miss M. F. Press, president; Mrs. A. Nicoll, vice-president; and Miss E. Parsell, secretary-treasurer, are members of the committee struck to make arrangements for the first meeting and for applying to international headquarters for a charter.

Japs Can't Locate All Units in Burma

KANDY, Ceylon (CP)—The position of Japanese forces on the Burma front was so confused when hostilities ended there that the Japanese commander, Gen. Kimura, had to ask the Allied command to help locate some of his units, the office of Admiral Lord Louis Mountbatten, Allied Southeast Asia Commander, disclosed today.

Revive Organization

Reorganization and plans to revive the Methosin Farmers' Institute, one of the oldest and formerly most active farmers' organizations in B.C., is now underway, Dr. K. C. MacDonald, minister of agriculture, said today.

Organized in 1898, immediately following the passing of the first Farmers' Institute and Co-operative Act by the B.C. legislature, the Methosin Farmers' Institute intends to apply for reinstatement and renew its activities which were centred around the Community Hall at Luxton, which is owned by the institute.

Plans include improving a beach nearby for bathing, making a ball ground at the Community Hall. The institute is also considering organizing boys' and girls' clubs.

At a recent meeting at the Community Hall attended by Dr. J. B. Munro, deputy minister of agriculture, and Maj. L. W. Johnson, senior clerk in the agriculture department who handles much of the Farmers' Institute work, temporary officers were named, including Mr. Hiscock, president, and A. Lincoln, secretary. The meeting was called by W. P. Hobbs and 40 attended. The Methosin Farmers' Institute had become disorganized

Satellites of Nazis May Get Chance to Plead Own Cases

WASHINGTON (AP)—Countries formerly allied with Nazi Germany may get a chance to plead their own cases before the Big Five foreign ministers in London next month.

Similarly, it was learned today, nations involved in territorial disputes may be summoned to present their views when the council convenes for the first time Sept. 10. The council is a creation of the recent Potsdam Big Three conference.

U.S. State Secretary Byrnes is expected to propose full hearings in order to bring out all facts related to any controversial matters he fears might menace the peace of Europe.

Mr. Byrnes also is understood to have several other suggestions designed to speed up the work of the council. It has been assigned the task of drawing up proposed peace treaties for Italy, Rumania, Bulgaria, Hungary and Finland, in addition to recommending solutions for the territorial disputes.

One proposal Mr. Byrnes may make would establish committees of experts to deal with the major specialized problems.

Unionist Here To Discuss Strike

William White, president of the Iron Shipbuilders' and Boilermakers' Union (C.C.L.), Local No. 1, was in Victoria to meet Labor Minister George Pearson today to discuss a proposed strike vote at Dominion Bridge Co. in Vancouver.

The union is seeking a maintenance of membership contract with check-off system of collection of union dues. The company has declined to sign an agreement. Approximately 600 persons are employed at the plant.

May Still Restrict Imports by Britain

OTTAWA (CP)—Trade officials here expect Britain will continue the severe restrictions on imports into the United Kingdom until the government knows how it is going to get the "hard" money—that is U.S. and Canadian dollars—to pay for goods from North America.

Lord Keynes, adviser to the British Treasury, will be here next week and a start will be made working out some system that will enable Britain to get raw materials and foodstuffs from Canada after mutual aid is discontinued.

C.C.F. Drops Attempt To Unseat Gardiner

SASKATOON (CP)—The C.C.F. provincial executive will not take action under the Controversial Elections Act to unseat Agriculture Minister Gardiner in the federal constituency of Melville. Dr. Carville King, acting president of the Saskatchewan C.C.F., said today in a statement issued here.

He said a C.C.F. investigation had shown "many irregularities" in the June 11 federal election in Melville, "but the legal loopholes in the act make it unwise for us to risk the thousands of dollars which an appeal would cost."

Dr. King also said the C.C.F. is prepared to submit evidence at the proposed inquiry by the Chief Electoral Officer into the conduct of balloting at poll 50 in Melville.

Five fines of $2.50 were imposed in city police court today for violation of parking regulations. One driver was fined $15 for exceeding the 30 m.p.h. limit.

Big 4 Officials Face Herculean Task In Preparing War Trials

LUERNBERG (AP) — In the bomb-blasted heart of this one-time showplace of Nazism they are working feverishly to prepare the stage for one of the greatest dramas in history — the trial of Nazi war criminals before an international military tribunal.

It would be a task in any city anywhere to prepare for the influx of an estimated 1,000 people from two hemispheres to participate in and record the trials which will last weeks, perhaps months, beginning probably early in October. In Luernberg — in whose waste of stone an intact building is an exception and where food and fuel are short — the job is Herculean.

The chief defendants, Hermann Goering, Joachim von Ribbentrop, Franz von Papen already are on hand. Other top-ranking survivors of Hitler's "New Order" assembled here for the trial include: Marshal Wilhelm Keitel and Col. Gen. Alfred Jodl of Hitler's general staff, Jew-baiter Julius Streicher, Kurt Daluege, former Gestapo chief; Robert Ley, the Labor Front leader; Wilhelm Frick, former Minister of the Interior.

With them are Alfred Rosenberg, the Nazi "philosopher," Walther Buech, who headed the Nazi courts; Arthur Seyss-Inquart and Hans Frank, gauleiters for Holland and Poland; and Hans Lammer, former state secretary in Hitler's cabinet. All are held in solitary confinement.

JUDGES FROM BIG 4

There will be four judges and four alternates representing Britain, the United States, Russia and France; 22 prosecutors, eight interpreters, eight clerks of court, 60 defendants and defence counsel, and 250 correspondents, photographers and documentarians. That leaves space in the courtroom for fewer than 150 distinguished visitors and the public.

The sound and photographic equipment will be the most complex ever installed in a courtroom, for the entire proceedings will be recorded for the archives of four nations. Judges and alternates — probably also a section of the press — will be provided with earphones to permit simultaneous interpretation of the testimony into four languages. Thus all the judges will get the questions and answers in their respective languages at the same time, cut-

"That sure looks a good crop this year, Mac."
"You bet it is! That will go No. 1 Northern—and I'll bet it'll go 40 to the acre anyway."
"And talking about good results reminds me—I brought you out a tin of KIWI from the store. That's the stuff for a jim dandy shine."
"Sure is! If shoe polishes were graded like wheat, KIWI sure would go No. 1."
"You're telling me! We're never without KIWI in our house—and say, was that boy of mine glad to find it when he came back from overseas?"
"KIWI got to be a regular habit with the boys over there, I guess."
"You bet—they learned a lot about smartness in the Service and, believe me, it's staying with them now they're home!"

"I guess no shine can compete with KIWI and it sure does keep the leather soft and supple."
"Yes—somehow KIWI seems specially good for the Canadian climate—guess that's why it's so popular."

Western Thriller Opens at Rio

Dennis O'Keefe In York Comedy

How would you go about spending $1,000,000 in two months' time? That's the intriguing problem that confronts Monty Brewster in Edward Small's engaging comedy, "Brewster's Millions," slated to bow in at the York Theatre today through United Artists release.

The title role is played by Dennis O'Keefe, who has in the past few years of his stardom chalked up some fine comedy performances to his credit. As Monty Brewster, he characterizes a jovial G.I. Joe, recently discharged from the service, who falls heir to an $8,000,000 fortune left him by a daffy uncle he has never met. The uncle desiring to rob his nephew of the enthusiastic joy of spending has put quite a few dampers on the gift. First, and most important of all, is that Monty has to spend his first million in two months' time. The second is that none is to be given outright to charity, and the third that no permanent assets can be acquired with it, not even a wife.

Technicolor Film Showing at Cadet

Andy Devine's blushes were photographed in technicolor for Universal's spectacular adventure-romance, "Sudan," now at the Cadet Theatre with Maria Montez, Jon Hall and Turhan Bey.

Reason for the blushes, Andy wears a cute black Buster wig, a petite, two-curl beard, mascara on his eyes and of all things he wears a loose-fitting dress that falls far above his fat knees, for his role of Egyptian horse thief.

Always the Same

In cooking with Carnation Milk, you can always count on the quality being the same. The can you open tomorrow will be just like the one you open today. The can you buy at one store will be the same as that bought at another. The bottom milk is the same as the top milk. And every drop has extra "sunshine" Vitamin D. Cook with the good milk with the red-and-white Carnation label.

For milk recipes, use half Carnation and half water. For cream recipes, use Carnation undiluted, as it pours from the can. Write for free Carnation Cook Book. Carnation Co. Limited, 470 Granville St., Vancouver, B.C.

FLOWERS HELP SUPPLY SCENTS FOR SOME KINDS OF PERFUME

There is something about the sense of smell which costs the world millions of dollars each year. I am thinking of the fact that many persons like to smell odors which are pleasant in a special way.

Because people enjoy such odors, great sums are spent for perfumes and toilet waters. For more than 3,000 years the work of making perfumes has been going on. The ancient Egyptians used to burn myrrh and iris to produce scents in their temples. This was done in honor of Egyptian gods, but people in the temples no doubt enjoyed what they smelled.

Greeks and Romans also used incense and perfumes, and in due time the custom was taken up in western Europe. France is the country which, in modern times, has become the greatest centre for high-grade perfumes.

If we ask where perfumes come from, the answer is a long one. Flowers play a big part in the industry, and so do certain animals. During the present century, artificial perfumes have become very important.

In various countries are "flower farms." The flowers are raised for the sake of the oils which can be taken from them for use in making perfume.

An acre of roses may produce, in a year, a ton of rose petals. From these rose petals, as much as a pint of oil may be taken. If I called that oil "sweet-smelling," it would be a mistake. One drop of it on a woman's dress would

The DOCTOR Says:

CONSULT YOUR PHYSICIAN FOR PSORIASIS TREATMENT

By WILLIAM A. O'BRIEN, M.D.
Psoriasis is a disease with which the patient and his relatives must learn to live. It is not contagious and it does not leave scars. It usually develops in healthy individuals. While a permanent cure is not possible, much can be done to keep psoriasis under control.

Each skin disease has a characteristic way of occurring in certain parts of the body, and psoriasis is no exception. It is more apt to develop on the back of the scalp, elbows, small of the back, knees, shins, palm of hands, and fingernails. It seldom affects the face. While it usually develops in these places it may spread to other parts when the skin is scaly and oily.

Psoriasis is made up of patches of tiny, red pimples (papules) covered with silvery scales, which when removed leave a red base. The patches usually have sharp edges separating them from the surrounding skin. They have different sizes and shapes because healing and spread may take place at the same time in an affected area.

CAUSE UNKNOWN
Cause is not known. It may well be that the condition is not produced by one agent but by several. The skin of patients with psoriasis differs from normal skin in its tendency to form these scaly papules when injured. Their development over friction points is suggestive of this difference. The disease may be spread locally by scratching.

Psoriasis usually improves during the summer months, and most of those who have the disease are better at this time of the year. Sun baths, rest, change, and exercise usually help the patient so much that other treatment is not indicated in the summer.

Psoriasis may flare up and become itchy, but ordinarily it runs a chronic course. The skin usually becomes resistant to various methods of treatment, even those which were successful in the first place. Patients with psoriasis should not skip from one treatment to the other with the hope of obtaining quick results. There are many remedies advertised for psoriasis, but the one which will help the other fellow may not help you. Some patients respond to low fat diet, while others are only improved by local applications or other treatments.

Best results are obtained by staying with your own physician and following his directions. Psoriasis is essentially harmless even though it may be disfiguring and at times it may be irritating. Do not over-treat the disease in your desire to get a result too soon. This often happens when treatment is self-administered.
